Chapter 207

Allison got up much earlier than usual today. She got ready. Teresa bought her some clothes last night. She wore one of them.

She was dressed in a light pink dress that reached her knees. She radiated flawless and exquisite beauty. In fact, she looked younger than her age.

She began to curl her hair from the bottom. She put on a pair of black boots.

She felt good to dress up for herself.

She left her room and went downstairs. Everyone was lounging on the couches of the living room. They looked at her and smiled.

"Today, you two can have breakfast with us." Ella said, as they were not getting late at all. Allison agreed with Ella.

Teresa looked at Allison and winked at her. Allison walked to her and asked,

"You are in a good mood today."

Teresa yawned and mumbled, "Yeah, I feel refreshed."

"That's great." She chuckled when she realized what had refreshed Teresa.

They went to the dining room to have breakfast.

"Where is Ryan?" Ethan asked.

"He is out of the pack house." Delta Owen replied.

Allison glanced at the empty chair and then returned her attention to her food.

After breakfast, she and Teresa left for their school.

Allison's first class was not with Teresa. So she headed to her first class alone. After she walked in, she looked around for a place to sit. She noticed there was a vacant seat next to a boy. She walked to the seat and sat there.

A few students turned to them and raised their brows.

"What?" She asked them.

"That's Ruby's seat." The boy next to her let out.

She turned her head to him and then to the students in front of her.

"Well, I am sorry. I didn't know." She said and was about to stand up, but the boy beside her stopped her.

"Oh, it's okay. She can sit with Mack."

Allison was confused. "Who is Mack?"

The boy introduced his friends to her.

"I am Ron. They are Mack and Malini."

"Hi. I am new here, so I didn't know it was someone else's place." Allison apologized.

"Don't worry. Ruby is our friend. And there she is." He said, then pointed at a girl who had just entered the class.

Allison turned her head to look at the girl who was approaching her. She didn't look pleased when her eyes fell on Allison.

"Who is she?" She asked.

"I am Allison Clark. Hello." Allison replied to herself.

Allison could see that Ruby liked Ron. She did not want anyone to mistake her as a destroyer, so she stood up and said to them that she could take another seat.

After the class, those four people joined her in another classroom. Allison found them friendly and felt that they were good people.

Because other students were different, the girls were staring at her with hostile expressions, as though she posed a threat to them. On the other hand, young men's gazes were tinged with lust as they surveyed her.

Allison had the opinion that men were the same. They were only interested in women.

During break time, she met Teresa in the school's cafeteria.

"I can't believe this cafe is bigger than the few classrooms of our previous school." Allison said while looking around the cafe.

"Yeah, you are right."

"I have met a few students. They are really good."

"Any boy?"

"Yeah, two boys and two girls. Why?" Allison asked while looking at her with confused eyes.

"Nothing." Teresa replied with a smirk.

After finishing up with all of their classes, they made their way towards the front door. They could see the crowd.

Allison peeked at the crowd, trying to see what they were looking at.

At that time, Teresa's phone rang. Allison could see who had called her. It was Max.

Teresa received the call and almost screamed.

"What are you saying? You all are out of school! We are coming."

She reached out and grabbed Allison's hand before sprinting towards the other people. "They are outside."

Before Allison could ask anything, she heard whispers.

"Alpha is here! He has never been there."

"Someone said his girlfriend is studying here with us."

"Girlfriend? Wasn't it Elora?"

"No, he declared to get married with another girl."

"My dad said that she was his mate."

"Who is the luckiest girl?"

Allison overheard a lot of people whispering. She paid them no attention and continued walking into the crowd.

As soon as the students noticed Teresa, they retreated. Allison realized that she heard right about her. She had great power in this pack.

When they reached the entrance, Allison's steps halted.

She saw Ryan leaning against his car as if waiting for someone. His black jeans, black t-shirt, and black sunglasses gave him the look of a spoiled brat at the school.

For once, she thought back to the past when Ryan had just returned to the Moonlight Crown pack.

Ryan straightened his posture and started walking in her direction.

Teresa hurried over to Max and gave him a bear hug. "What are you all doing here?" She asked and glanced at the two other cars.

Max looked at Ryan and muttered, "Your words really affected him."

Teresa turned to look at Ryan, who was now standing next to Allison.

Allison looked away from him. The crowd was watching Ryan with amazed eyes. They could not believe that they had been blessed with such an incredible opportunity to meet their head Alpha in person.

Ryan reached out and grabbed Allison's hand before looking around at the people around them.

"From what I've heard, you're in the dark about her true identity. She is going to be your Luna very soon. The most important thing is..." He paused and turned his attention to the young men who were standing there with their heads bowed in submission.

"She is my woman. So be careful with the way you look at her. If something is brought to my attention in the future, I will pull out your eyes as retaliation."
