

Chapter 226

Happy Ending Part: 2

Allison gave Teresa a nod and went inside the salon. Elora and Teresa both joined her behind. Their bodyguards got out of the cars, opened the trunk of Allison's car, and took out the stuff from inside before entering the salon.

A beautiful woman came up to Allison and respectfully bowed to her.

"Welcome, Luna. Long time, no see."

Allison smiled at her and replied,

"Selena Harris, how are you?"

"I was fine, Luna. But after hearing from you and being given such a significant opportunity, I am more thrilled than I could have ever imagined."

Allison talked to her for some time and introduced Elora and Teresa to her.

Selena and her staff prepared everything for Elora first because Allison said she and Teresa would get ready later, after Elora.

The whole day went there. It was evening. Allison gave the phone a quick check and saw that Ryan had called. She paid it no attention and instead concentrated on her makeup.

After she had finished getting ready, she stood in front of the mirror to examine her appearance.

Selene gave her a friendly smile and remarked,

"Just like Alpha said that day, the most beautiful girl."

After a chuckle, Allison expressed her gratitude to her. She turned her head to look at Elora, who was wearing a beautiful white gown and was quite stunning. She looked happy with her bridal look. On the other hand, Teresa looked gorgeous in a rose-gold dress.

"We have to go now." Teresa said. Max informed her that guests were waiting in the hall for the bride.

After saying their thanks to Selena, they left the salon. They traveled for half an hour before arriving at the pack house.

As they approached the hall, they noticed a few ladies standing outside holding bouquets.

"We were waiting for you, Luna." Cynthia, Wade's mate, informed.

"Since you all are bridesmaids, come behind her," Allison said with a warm smile, stepping aside.

All four ladies stood behind Elora and entered the hall with her. All of them were pretty and perfect for their mates.

Allison and Teresa walked inside the hall a minute later because they did not want to grab the attention of the guests that they should give to Elora first.

As soon as Allison walked in the door, everyone turned their attention to her and bowed to her. She walked with her head up high and nodded her head at them.

Her gaze was drawn to the man who was standing off to the side and staring at her. Teresa followed her gaze.

"Go to your mate. I am going to mine." Teresa said and went to stand beside Max.

Allison walked to Ryan. He was in a black tuxedo, looking more than perfect. The more she could say about his handsome features, the less it would be.

She stood next to him. She ignored his gaze. She smiled at his parents and then at her parents. Everyone gathered close to the stage.

Ethan was holding Elora's hand, taking vows of promise. He appeared content with the second chance his fate had given him.

Allison's heart swelled with a sense of relief. At this point, nobody had any problems. Everyone had found their life partner and was happy with them.

"You look hot." She heard a whisper but chose not to pay attention to it.

When Ryan put his hand on her waist, she immediately shifted her attention to him. She cast a quick glance in the direction of their families, who were clapping and applauding for the newlywed couples.

"What?" She questioned Ryan with an angry tone.

"My baby, don't get mad. You know I am blunt when talking." He said it, but his voice was deep.

She averted her gaze briefly before returning it to the stage.

"Hmm," she hummed, acting as though she was still upset. However, she secretly enjoyed it when he tried to persuade her.

Everyone cheered as Ethan and Elora exchanged rings to signify their marriage. They climbed down from the stage and gave everyone a hug.

As soon as they approached them, Ethan gave a hug to Ryan, and Elora gave a hug to Allison.

"Finally, you are married to my hybrid," Ryan said to Ethan.

"She is my hybrid now, bro."

"Oh, jealousy is just a disease, Big Brother."

"Look who's talking."

Everyone laughed and enjoyed the two brothers' conversations. There was no distance between the two brothers anymore. They pledged to stick by each other and be with their families together in the future. Their parents were living a perfect life with their sons and daughters-in-law.

"Ethan is married now. He will understand the tantrum of a wife." Max remarked as all the friends approached the two brothers after Allison and Elora left their sides.

Max gave tips to Colin, Owen, Vernon, and Wade as well, since their time would be coming soon.

The celebration party went long. It was time for everyone to leave.

Ryan was talking to his friends and Ethan. Suddenly, his eyes fell on Allison. She was having conversations with some alphas of different packs.

"You all continue. I am leaving." Ryan said to them.

"Where?" Colin asked him.

Ryan glanced at Ethan. Ethan nodded and said to Colin, "Let him go. He will join us tomorrow."

Meanwhile, Allison was conversing with some Alpha. Suddenly, she felt an arm wrapping around her waist; she didn't need to know who it was.

"Alpha"

The other Alphas greeted and bowed to Ryan. Everyone was required to show respect to him because he was the king of the Alphas.

"Looks like you all are in a deep conversation." He muttered and glared at the Alphas.

"No, no. We were just talking about our packs. You two can talk. Please excuse us." One of them said.

Ryan kept glaring at them until they left from the sight.

"Why did you scare them?" Allison asked him.

"Let's go."

"Where?" She asked with a surprise tone.

"You will get to know it soon." He replied and dragged her outside.

He opened the door of his car, and she got confused. When he came to sit in the driver's seat, Allison asked,

"Ryan, the ceremony is not over yet."

"The newlywed couple knows about it. So you don't have to be concerned."

Allison remained silent the whole ride. The car stopped close to the forest.

Ryan got out of the car and opened the door for her. She reached out and took his hand when he extended it to her. As soon as she stepped out of the car, she realized where they were.

"This is the way of..." she mumbled.

"Let's go."

They ventured deeper into the woods. Walking was tough for her because she was wearing heels. He noticed it and lifted her into his arms.

"Ryan"

"I can't see my baby feeling hurt." He said and proceeded to the destination while carrying her in his arms.

When he reached close to the destination, he put her down.

She was amazed by what she was looking at.

It was the lake Ryan used to call his safe place. On the other hand, he embellished the environment by stringing yellow lights in the trees. There was a white mattress, pillows, and a blanket lying on the ground in close proximity to the lake. Since everything on the ground was white, it appeared to be an incredible sight when viewed in the moonlight.

The entire scenario played out like a dream.

Allison took off her heels and went to sit on the mattress. Ryan followed her behind and sat next to her.

He noticed her expression when she spotted his black shirt and jacket on the bed.

She turned her head to the side and looked directly at him before asking, "Where did you do this? These were in my--"

"House?"

"You went to my old house?"

He nodded at her in response. "When I went to pick up your parents in the evening, I reviewed your room and found them in the closet."

"You yourself went to pick up Mom and Dad?" She asked with a shocked tone.

"Yeah. They are Alpha Ryan's in-laws. I made the mistake of talking roughly about your dad in the meeting one year ago. So today, every Alpha saw what he and your mother mean to me, and they should not mess around with them."

Allison hugged him. "Thanks, Ryan."

He used his palms to gently rub her back in a leisurely motion. "Anything for you, baby. Are you still mad at me?"

She pulled away from the embrace and smiled sheepishly. "Honestly, I wasn't mad at you. I was just pretending."

"Baby, you are getting naughty."

Saying that, he crashed his lips on hers. He started to kiss her gently, but then it turned wild.

When he moved away, he wiped her lips softly with his thumb.

"You are spoiling me." Allison rejoiced with a smile.

He pecked her lips and replied with a grin, "You can be my spoiled wife. But I should not have let those Alphas go. I don't like how they look at you."

Allison laughed at his jealous face. She cupped his face.

"My baby, just relax. They are already afraid of you."

They spent the night under the moonlight while talking about how they reached this stage of life.

Allison stared at the glistening lake water. Her head rested against Ryan's chest. They circled themselves with the blanket and hugged each other in their arms.

"Sometimes, I wonder what I did so well to have you as my mate, Ryan." She mumbled.

The memories of her past played through her head like a movie.

It all started at the club. They met, he chased her, she ignored and neglected him, he helped her to move on, he made her fall in love with him, and they went into a lovely relationship, but fate separated them for a long time. They met once again in a different situation; they realized each other's mistakes and became together again.

"You are wrong. I am the luckiest one. You changed my life, Allison. After finding you, I understood what love is. Because of you, I am living a happy life with my family. You taught me that power is not the only thing we need in life; we also need love."

"I love you, Ryan."

"I love you too, Allison."

"Will we always be together like this?"

"I promise. Forever."

She turned her head toward him and thought of something to tease him.

"You know omegas always look for love, so if you change someday, I will look for someone else, you know." She joked and chuckled.

She felt him turn her body around to face him. She looked into his eyes. He leaned into her face.

"I will never change, and I know you will never leave me. Because..."

He paused and smiled at her. He kissed her forehead and replied,

"You Are Mine, Omega."
