

Chapter 1090 Privileges Of A Star

When did a star have the right to block the road?

Trevor laughed angrily. Then he said bluntly, "Get out of my way! I don't care what kind of a star will show up. This is a public road, and it's illegal for you to occupy it without a permit. If you don't get out of my way, I'll call the police."

Upon hearing Trevor's words, the staff frowned and glared at him.

But he seemed to have recognized Trevor's identity.

"No wonder you're stirring up trouble here. It turns out you're the boss of Sky Film and Television Company. Why? Are you jealous that Star Film and Television Company can afford to invite a big star? Now you want to sabotage it? Humph! I'm telling you, you are dreaming!"

As he spoke, the sturdy staff pulled out a rubber stick and shouted, "Damn it! I'll smash your car today. Everyone else can leave later aside from you."

What? The staff wanted to smash his car?

Trevor's eyes narrowed. He grabbed the man's rubber stick effortlessly.

The expression on the man's face changed. He tried hard to pull the stick back from Trevor, but he failed. He shouted angrily, "Let go!"

Trevor squinted his eyes. Instead of letting go, he pulled it back hard, pulling the man close to him.

He slapped the man's face at lightning speed. He then raised his knee and slammed it into the man's stomach.

"Ahhh!" The man was hit hard and fell to the ground before he could even react. He held his stomach and screamed with tears and snot flowing wantonly on his face.

His wailing attracted more people's attention.

At this moment, a red Maserati stopped, and a slender woman got out of the car.

"Hey! How can you be so rude? How can you hit him just like that?" As soon as the woman opened her mouth, she accused Trevor.

When Trevor raised his eyes, he found that the woman was Lucy Evans, the female star of Star Film and Television Company.

In the face of Lucy's accusation, Trevor sneered and argued, "It seems that the road is blocked because of you. How dare an actress like you make such a scene! You even dare to block the public road and accuse others!"

After saying this, Trevor got the support of the drivers who were also affected.

Lucy's beauty didn't stop them from protesting. "That's right! Why are you blocking the way? Do you see yourself as superior to others?"

But Lucy didn't seem affected by the drivers' anger. She even argued brazenly, "So what if I'm blocking the road? I'm a star and a public figure. It's reasonable for me to have some privileges."

Nyomi had been sitting in the car, listening quietly. At this moment, she couldn't stand it anymore, so she opened the door, got out, and said, "Lucy, stop it. There must be a limit to shame. I've been in the entertainment industry for many years, but I never think that I have the privilege to block the road."

Sure enough, Lucy's face twisted when she saw Nyomi.

In terms of status, Nyomi was more popular and had more fans than her.

In terms of acting skills, Nyomi was much better than her.

In any case, she had no right to yell at Nyomi.

Many drivers might not know Lucy, but most of them recognized the famous star Nyomi. When they heard her words, they agreed with her.

"Nyomi is right!"

"Ha-ha! They are both female stars, but their qualities are totally different."

"No wonder some stars become very famous while others remain second-rate."

Trevor crossed his arms over his chest, looked at Lucy coldly, and asked, "Now, do you still think you are privileged?"

Lucy didn't dare to respond anymore. Her eyes were full of shame and anger as she quickly ran back into her car and fled dejectedly.

Chapter 1091 Cutting Off The Light And Water

Trevor watched as Lucy fled the scene, dejected. He didn't stop her.

The drivers all around him burst into laughter, making no secret of their mockery.

"The big star has left. Why don't you stop blocking the road?" Trevor snorted.

The staff couldn't pretend anymore. He stood up in a hurry, his face pale, not daring to look at Trevor. He removed the fences before running away with his companions.

Trevor and Nyomi left amid clapping and cheering from the group of drivers and soon arrived at the film set.

It was good news for the crew that the famous actress, Nyomi, was joining them.

When Asho announced the news, everyone was excited and cheered loudly. Some of them even took the opportunity to ask for Nyomi's autograph.

The enthusiasm of the set ran high.

Bess and Lloyd also welcomed Nyomi.

They made great progress on the movie in a short time.

But in less than a week, a new accident happened.

"Electricity has been disconnected," Asho said unhappily as he smoked and approached Trevor. "There was a sudden power cut in the middle of filming. I called to ask about the situation and was told that there's going to be construction near the film set. Not only is the power off, but the water supply also needs to be stopped."

Trevor frowned.

One day of filming cost a lot of money. If filming was delayed for even one day, the losses would be hard to estimate.

"When will they be restored?" Trevor asked.

Asho shook his head. "The water and power department said that they can't guarantee it."

They sat there, at a loss what to do, when Bess hurried over to them. "Dad! Levi! I just went to the set next door to take a look. There's no power failure there and they are still shooting normally!"

Trevor's frown deepened.

The film sets of Sky Film and Television Company and Star Film and Television Company were close to each other. If construction demanded a stoppage of water and electricity, then both sets would be in trouble.

But Star Film and Television Company was carrying on as usual. It was obvious that there was something fishy here.

"Wait a minute. Let me call and find out what's going on."

Trevor immediately called the head of the tax bureau, Malakai, and asked him for help.

Malakai agreed without hesitation and hung up with a promise to get back to him soon. He kept his promise.

He said awkwardly, "Levi, it's not that I don't want to help you. It's the water and power department that did it. Even the tax bureau can't intervene in this matter. I'm sorry."

Trevor didn't know much about the internal affairs of officials, but he could take a guess at Malakai's difficulties. So he said, "I understand that you can't solve this personally. How about this? If you think it's appropriate, please help me make an appointment with the chief of the water and power department. I want to talk to him."

Malakai intended to build a friendship with Trevor. He was in awe of Trevor's medical skills and agreed immediately.

"Okay, no problem. He will do me a favor. But whether you can make him help you or not is in your hands."

Malakai paused before adding in a low voice, "Levi, I have some news for you. As far as I know, Star Film and Television Company has something to do with it. It's probably Xzavier who did it."

Trevor knew that Xzavier had done it, but he still thanked Malakai.

No matter what was going on, he needed to see the director of the water and power department first to find out what he was after.