

Married At First Sight

Married At First Sight Chapter 3298-Trenton had not yet obtained his driver's license. When he turned eighteen, he had already gone back to school and had no time to take the driver's license test.

He would wait until next year's summer vacation to take the driver's license test.

When he went out, he either took a taxi or asked his family driver to take him there.

Camryn arranged for a driver to take Trenton to see Carrie. After the driver took Trenton out, Camryn arranged for someone to follow him quietly.

The purpose was to find out where Carrie lived.

Camryn didn't believe that she had no fixed abode.

If Carrie's life was really so miserable, she would have come to make trouble with Camryn a long time ago.

Even if she was not in Wiltspoon, with Carrie's temper, she would go to Wildridge Manor to cause trouble. How could she stay quiet?

Half an hour later,

The street next to Wiltspoon Grand Square was lively and bustling. Many people liked to go there for a walk after dinner, making the already bustling street even more lively.

The Newman family's driver stopped the car in front of Starbucks.

Trenton got out of the car and said to the driver, "I'll take a taxi back later, so you don't have to wait for me."

"Young master, the eldest lady asked me to send you off. When you want to go home, just call me. I'm nearby and will rush over to take you home."

Trenton said, “No, I still want to go shopping.”

When the driver saw that Trenton really didn't like him following him, he stopped insisting.

After Trenton entered Starbucks, the driver called Camryn and then drove away.

Carrie was sitting in the corner, waiting for Trenton. She was wearing thick clothes and the same clothes as before.

Except for the famous brand clothes, she didn't have any brand-name bags or jewelry. Even the high heels she wore were replaced by white shoes.

Seeing Trenton come in, Carrie stood up, waved to him, and shouted twice.

Trenton quickly walked toward Carrie.

“Second sister.” Trenton looked at Carrie while sitting down. Seeing that Carrie's face was not good-looking, he asked with concern, “Second sister, are you in good health? What kind of surgery did you say you wanted to do last time? Did you do it? I see, your face is not pretty.”

Carrie said, “You still care about me. I thought you wouldn't care even if I died.”

Trenton pursed his lips and said, “Second sister, what I have always cared about you is that you are always thorny, always scolding me, and always thinking about asking for money. Second sister, you're young and you have sound legs, yet you can't make money through your own efforts? Second sister, do you plan to be a rice bug for the rest of your life? Second sister, our parents can no longer protect us from the wind and rain. Please wake up.”

Trenton said it bitterly.

He stood by Camryn's side and did not give so much money to Carrie. In fact, he hoped that Carrie could stand up through her own efforts and stop being a rice bug.

Their parents could no longer protect them from the wind and rain, and Carrie was no longer the second young lady in the Newman family. If she continued like this, it would be her own fault.

Carrie said angrily, "It's not like you are heartless. You believed in Camryn and had the same heart as her. You didn't help me, your second sister. Did you give all the property in your parents' names to your eldest sister?"

"If you are willing to share it equally with me, why should I live in such a miserable state? Look at me; I don't even have to wear a pair of high heels. The last time I had an operation, I had no money, so I retained all of the jewelry I had brought out, which I sold to cover the cost of the surgery. If I stay in the hospital and spend money on nursing staff to take care of me, all that money will be spent."

Trenton said, "I said that I would come back to take care of you and accompany you for the operation, but you refused to let her do it. Which hospital did you have the operation at?"

Why did Camryn say that, after checking all the hospitals in Wiltspoon, there was no information about Carrie being hospitalized?

It was impossible for Camryn to lie to Trenton, which means Carrie lied to him.

However, Carrie's face did not look good, as if she were ill.

"You are a grown man; how can you take care of me? I asked you to give me money, but you listened to that blind woman, and you didn't give me any money. I had to sell my jewelry for money. You still think that I'm lying to you. Look at me. My face is a little pale. That's because I have not been able to keep up with my nutrition after the operation and have not recovered my health."
