

Chapter 1061 The Eight-Color Elemental Stone

Liam and Laura were utterly shocked as they gazed at their reflections in the mirror. To their astonishment, their new faces bore an uncanny resemblance to Zoya's and Kolton's faces.

Liam, who was already skilled in disguise, understood all the intricacies and challenges of the art. He couldn't help but marvel at Mr. Jenkins' impeccable technique.

Noticing Liam's astonishment, Mr. Jenkins beamed with pride. "Your new faces have been meticulously sculpted using my spatial abilities," he explained. "Unless a person with powers comparable to mine scrutinizes them closely, no one will be able to detect any discrepancies. This means that your chances of being exposed within the Saint Society are almost nonexistent. You're free to wander around now!"

Filled with immense joy at Mr. Jenkins' assurance, Liam thanked him.

It was only after they had grown accustomed to their new faces and could demonstrate even the most subtle facial expressions that Mr. Jenkins offered his advice. "Now that you are essentially my subordinates, your chances of being exposed have decreased. Nevertheless, you must exercise even more caution in the future. You must learn about Zoya's and Kolton's social connections, as well as how to interact with their friends without revealing your true identities. Don't slip up!"

Chapter 1061 The Eight-Color Eleme 🎁 +120 Points at most

Liam and Laura nodded in understanding. Liam, in particular, had already contemplated this aspect.

Mr. Jenkins then unveiled the reason behind his elaborate preparations. "Allow me to explain why I've gone to such lengths for this. In a few days, the civilization behind the Saint Society will open their maritime secret realm. It's a method they employ to cultivate talent. The method is very cruel."

After a pause, he continued, "The realm is fraught with competition and conflict. Only those whose strength does not surpass the sixth level of Primogem Warriors are permitted to participate. Many factions within the Saint Society will send their own representatives. Liam, Laura, you two will attend disguised as Kolton and Zoya. It will present you with a good opportunity."

The term "secret realm" was unfamiliar to Liam. He had never heard of such a thing before.

So, he inquired, "What activities will take place within this secret realm?"

"The secret realm harbors both risks and opportunities," Mr. Jenkins explained. "The trials within can yield various enhancements and expertise. Of course, in addition to these opportunities, it also poses substantial risks. Apart from the overt and covert struggles among participants, the realm is also home to unique creatures fostered by other civilizations. Some of these formidable beings possess the ability to enhance their own strength, akin to Primogem Warriors."

Pausing for a moment, he added, "Remember this. High risk brings high rewards. The treasures concealed within the secret realm can help a Primogem Warrior break through their first limit and may even enable breakthrough achievers to awaken additional abilities. However, the more abilities one awakens, the more challenging it becomes to unlock new ones. These newly awakened abilities tend to be referred to as 'special powers'."

Liam nodded intently, ensuring that he remembered everything Mr. Jenkins said. He carefully committed these words to memory.

Suddenly, Mr. Jenkins produced an eight-colored Elemental Stone from his hand. The stone resembled a crystal, with vibrant hues intricately woven throughout.

Mr. Jenkin handed the stone to Liam. "This is the Elemental Stone, the most prevalent treasure utilized for breaking limits in the secret realm. The greater the number of colors present within the stone, the more potent its effects. An eight-color Elemental Stone like this is extremely rare."

Liam examined the precious stone and pressed his lips together, intending to return it to Mr. Jenkins.

However, before he could act, Mr. Jenkins waved his hand and offered a reassuring smile. "This was left for you by the master," he said. "He intended me to present this to you when you were about to reach the sixth level, but I had no idea we would meet after you had already broken through. You've taken me completely by surprise!"

He blinked at Liam and added, "Although you're already at the sixth level, you can still utilize this eight-color Elemental Stone to awaken an additional special power. This way, such a valuable stone won't go to waste!"

