

Chapter 1027 He Is Liam's Son

With Rohan's direct question, Townsend didn't hold back. He flashed an evil grin and replied immediately, "I've come to the Duncan family specifically to deliver a specimen for your experiments! Rest assured, this one will exceed your expectations!"

Upon hearing this, Rohan smiled faintly, not displaying much excitement. Even with a shortage of test subjects in the laboratory, how could a mere experiment let Townsend personally come all the way here?

Rohan figured Townsend must have had something else to discuss and had casually brought along a subject for his experiments.

So, Rohan grinned and said, "What's so special about the test subject that it brings you here in person? And you've brought quite a few people along with you."

Townsend laughed and replied, "This test subject is quite unique!"

Afterward, Townsend didn't keep Rohan guessing any longer. He clapped his hands and instructed his men to bring Asher in.

Gesturing towards Asher, Townsend introduced him to Rohan. "Meet Liam Hoffman's son, Asher! Impressive specimen, wouldn't you agree?"

Upon hearing this, Rohan's face lit up with surprise.

He had heard that Liam had come back. But he hadn't thought much of it. After all, Adamson had drained Liam's energy and left him disabled before.

In other words, Liam would never get the opportunity to seek revenge in his lifetime. And allowing him to exist in this world was another form of torment for Liam.

Yet, Rohan hadn't expected Liam would have a conflict with Townsend now. Rohan was quite taken aback and curious about this, so he asked, "Isn't Liam a complete mess? Why are you still paying attention to him?"

As soon as Liam was mentioned, the smile vanished from Townsend's face, replaced by an icy glare. He said, "You think I want to waste my time on that bastard? He almost killed me! Rohan, you might not know this, but Liam is a force to be reckoned with!"

Rohan furrowed his brows and instinctively felt Townsend's power. To his surprise, he realized Townsend's strength was much weaker than before!

With this realization, Rohan stopped underestimating Liam and spoke in a low voice. "I never thought Liam would return this quickly! No need to worry. I'll make sure Liam's son is taken care of!"

Seeing the ruthless look on Rohan's face, Townsend smirked and nodded with satisfaction. After that, he left the Duncan family's residence.

Once Townsend was gone, Rohan's gaze landed on Asher.

Observing the fear in Asher's expression, Rohan stood up from his seat and approached him. He playfully grinned and reached out to lightly pinch Asher's cheek.

Asher had never met Rohan before, so he kept quiet, unsure of what to say.

At that moment, Asher's heart was heavy with the memory of his grandmother's brutal murder at the hands of Tyler.

But then, Tyler suggested to Rohan, "Mr. Duncan, why don't we cripple this kid? Perhaps we could send a piece of him to Liam and add a little spice to his suffering!"