An Understated Dominance by Marina Vittori Chapter 2318

Chapter 2318

Conor seemed to have thought of something and suddenly changed the topic: “Oh, by the way! A young doctor just came, used nine kinds of needles, pricked Noemi randomly, and ran away after pricking her body. I don’t know if it has any effect. Not sure.”

“N*nsense!” Zizi frowned. “The patient’s condition is critical. How can we let doctors with unknown origins diagnose and treat him randomly? Who will be responsible if something goes wrong? Hurry! Take me to have a look!”

“This way, please.” Conor did not dare to hesitate and immediately brought Zizi and the others into Noemi’s room.

“Brother Conor, these three are...”

In the room, Cassidy looked at the three unfamiliar faces who entered the door, feeling a little strange.

“Cassidy, this is the Divine Doctor Wang I mentioned to you. As for these two, they are both disciples of the Divine Doctor Wang.” Conor made a simple introduction.

“It turns out to be Doctor Wang, whose name I have admired for a long time.” Cassidy bowed.

“Forget the polite words; let’s see her first.” Zizi went straight to the point.

“Doctor Wang, this is my sister. Someone had just given her an injection. Can you see if she is reliable?” Cassidy took the initiative to give up her position as she spoke.

“Um?”

Zizi stepped forward, took a closer look, and couldn’t help but frown slightly. “Where did you hire this half-hearted person? How dare you ask him to treat her without understanding the situation? What if someone is killed?”

“Half-assed?” Cassidy was stunned for a moment, and after looking at Conor, she quickly asked, “Doctor Wang, is there something wrong with that person’s treatment method?”

“Of course there is a problem! “And the problem is huge!” Zizi said with a serious face, “The patient is weak, has a pale face, and blue lips.” He is obviously poisoned. In this case, we should first use decoction to nourish and enhance vitality, and then use silver needles to prick acupoints to remove the toxin.”

Kassidy: “But the person who applied the acupuncture did the opposite. In addition to not using any decoction to nourish the patient, he also sealed the patient’s key points with silver needles, preventing the extraction of toxins.

Zizi: “This is not treating a disease; this is clearly harming people!”

As soon as these words came out, Conor and Cassidy’s expressions changed.

If Dustin was just not good at medical skills, it would be fine. If he intentionally harmed people, the situation would be completely different.

“Hmph! I’ve already seen that something was wrong with that guy. He really had ulterior motives.” Conor gritted his teeth, his face gloomy.

“Doctor Wang, are you sure these silver needles are not curing diseases but harming people?” Cassidy asked again.

Zizi said seriously, “I have been practicing medicine for many years, and I will never be wrong. Either the person who applied the acupuncture is a dabbler and doesn’t understand anything, or he did it on purpose. Anyway, these silver needles have no benefit at all in curing diseases.”

With that said, Zizi stepped forward and was about to pull out the needle.

Kassidy quickly raised her hand to stop: “Doctor Wang, that person said that these silver needles are to extend my sister’s life.” After removing them, my sister might not survive for more than three hours.”

Zizi sneered, “Extended life? Humph! What a joke! The patient’s body has accumulated toxins that are impossible to discharge. Now they are using silver needles to seal the meridians. Is it because they think the patient will not die quickly enough? If you really follow what he said and let the silver needles seal the acupoints for three hours, then the patient will surely die.”
