

Chapter 1144 Wait For Me

Xzavier was good at manipulation. After intimidating the employees, he began to tempt them.

"Actually, it's good for all of you that I'm taking over the company. Following the acquisition, there will be a salary increase and an improvement in employee treatment. I know your current salary rate is far from enough, but I can guarantee you that you'll be compensated more once I become your boss."

Xzavier gave a hypocritical smile.

Salary increase and improvement in employee treatment? Everything he had just said was nothing but empty promises.

Star Film and Television Company was currently struggling with funds. The money used in the acquisition of Sky Film and Television Company was from loans.

Xzavier even had to mortgage his villa to a bank just to achieve the amount needed for the acquisition. And even if he succeeded in acquiring Trevor's company, he would unlikely follow through with his promise of a salary increase.

All he wanted was for Sky Film and Television Company to be his as soon as possible. That way, it would give the impression that Star Film and Television Company was still at the forefront of Barlowtown's entertainment industry.

As expected, Xzavier's words grabbed the employees' attention, and they began to hover.

Seeing that the employees took an interest, Bingham, the public relations manager standing next to Xzavier, took the opportunity to sway them more.

"Come on, guys! We work for money, aren't we? So now that we have a new boss willing to give us a higher salary, why are we hesitating? We should welcome our new boss from the Sanderson family with open arms!"

Asho couldn't stand Xzavier's audacity more and snorted coldly.

"It turns out there's really a scumbag like you in the Sanderson family who shamelessly uses his power to oppress others! This is an eye-opener to the Murray family."

"What did you say? Murray family?" Xzavier sounded surprised as he looked at Asho with his brow shot up.

The mysterious Murray family was one of the world's top three families, alongside the Sanderson family and the Wright family.

Xzavier's eyes narrowed. He didn't expect the renowned director, Asho, to be a member of the Murray family.

If Trevor were present, he would also be shocked.

Though he was working with them, Trevor had no idea that Asho and Bess were members of the powerful Murray family.

Among the three top families, the Murray family had always been the most enigmatic and elusive.

They kept a low profile, and news of their activities was scarce that their existence was unknown to most people.

Only in the past decade or so did they start to change their ways.

Xzavier's face contorted into a grimace.

Why should he be scared of Asho? Asho might be a member of the Murray family, but it didn't mean he was an important one. After all, he almost died in the car accident that Xzavier once staged.

A sneer then spread across Xzavier's face as he felt confident again.

He was no longer afraid of Asho being a Murray and snarled, "Perhaps you forgot that you're just a film director the company hired, Asho. Are really you going to fight against me to the end for this? Or do you like this to cause tension between the Sanderson family and the Murray family? I think you're wise enough to decide what to do."

Xzavier took out his phone and called someone. He purposely made his voice louder enough for everyone to hear clearly what the conversation would be.

"Hello, Aeneas, are you here already? I want your presence here as we finish the acquisition."

Aeneas Sugden was the director of the water and power department.

By inviting an official, Xzavier clearly intended to put pressure on the employees.

After hanging up the call, Xzavier flashed a disdainful smile at Asho and Nelly.

"See? Without Levi here, I can destroy this company in many ways. If you don't want my offer when I'm being kind and generous, then I'm afraid I must resort to doing this the hard way."

After a while, Aeneas arrived with Westley.

Asho's face darkened as soon as he saw Aeneas come in.

"Have you forgotten that Levi saved your life, Aeneas? Is this how you'll repay him?"

Aeneas smiled smugly. "I already paid my dues to him by not getting involved with the clash between his company and Xzavier's. But Levi is still missing now, isn't he? How can I continue to be on his side when he isn't here anymore?"

Westley put his hands on his hips and snarled, "Good riddance! That brat deserves to die, anyway! He only saved my father after I knelt and pleaded to him! It's only right that a stuck-up like him dies!"

The audacity of these people!

Shameless jerks!

Asho and Nelly couldn't help but curse under their breath in contempt.

The situation was getting more out of hand.

Bess gritted her teeth as she stood on the side, enraged and anxious.

Suddenly, her phone vibrated. When she looked down and saw the message, the expression on her face was replaced with surprise and joy.

The message was short, but it made Bess feel so much better that she almost want to jump on her feet.

"Wait for me," the message simply read.

And the sender was no other than Trevor.

