

Married At First Sight Chapter 3377

Married At First Sight Chapter 3377-Kathryn answered honestly: "I don't know. My mom didn't reply to my brother and me on the phone. If my mom did it, she might pick him up high and put him down gently. After all, he is her biological son."

Liberty said, "I know. I won't do anything illegal for him, but I can skin him alive and make him miserable for years. By the way, hasn't your sister-in-law divorced your brother yet?"

"Not yet." Kathryn was silent for a moment, then said, "Although they are my biological brothers, from a woman's perspective, I can't wait to call them sc*mbags."

After learning from the experience of Marco and Erika, Noel and Sage treated their wives much better.

It was also because Shiloh died.

They also realized how cruel their mom was and dared not act too presumptuously.

Anya and Amora had already forgiven their husbands (Noel and Sage), and things seemed to be back to normal. Kathryn didn't care since the two couples still wanted to live a good life.

No matter what, they had to finish the road they chose.

Kathryn had helped her sisters-in-law in every way she could.

"Many men are like that. They eat what's in the bowl and look at what's in the pot. The red flag is flying at home while the colorful flags are flying outside."

Liberty was drinking tea again, looking at Kathryn as she drank.

Kathryn: "Why are you looking at me like that?"

Liberty said, "Don't miss Mr. Fraser. He is very suitable for you and will be absolutely loyal to you. If you marry him, you don't have to worry about being betrayed."

Kathryn's face flushed slightly. She said, "I'm not in the mood to think about marriage right now. Let's wait until our relationship comes to an end. I don't know what will happen in the future. Sigh, tell me, why are there so many disputes in the world?"

"Can't you just guard your own piece of land and live your own life well?"

Liberty was silent for a moment, then said, "People's hearts are never satisfied. Once they have a little, they want more. Once they have more, they want even more. It's easy to say that you can always be content, but how many people can really do it?"

After thinking about it, Kathryn laughed at herself: "Yes, I want to have more."

After she finished the cup of tea, she suddenly asked Liberty, "Mr. Fraser told me that you have made a new discovery in Wiltspoon. Did you find my aunt's old assistant? Is he still alive?"

Liberty didn't know the details, but one thing was certain: The old assistant was still alive and had come to Wiltspoon. She didn't know what was going on with him, but Serenity said Audrey would call her in the evening.

She was still waiting for Audrey's call.

"Alive." Liberty did not hide it from Kathryn.

She also wanted to see whether Kathryn was sincere in what she said at the beginning.

Kathryn was stunned.

She actually found someone. And the other party was still alive and well.

So, was the truth about to be revealed?

When did it come to an end?

After a while, Kathryn asked with concern, "Is the old man okay?"

"I don't know the details. Seren sent me a message and just told me that she had found the old man. She didn't tell me anything else. He's nearly a hundred years old and still alive, which means he's in good health."

Liberty did not tell Kathryn that the old man was rescued by the old doctor and others.

Thanks to the help of the old doctor and his apprentice in taking care of the old man's health, he has been able to survive until now. Maybe it's also because of the persistent thought of revenge that holds him back.
