

Chapter 1178 Commotion

Trevor snorted coldly.

"Don't you feel ashamed saying that? You're the one who stepped on my foot, yet you accuse me of spraining your ankle?"

The girl's heavily made-up face contorted with rage. Glaring at Trevor, she shook the arm of the man beside her.

"Paul! Did you see that? He's so arrogant!"

Paul naturally wouldn't just stand and do nothing after hearing his girl was hurt by a stranger.

He glared at Trevor and demanded smugly, "Apologize to my girlfriend now, and we will let go of this matter."

Spectators and passers-by started crowding the bar's entrance after overhearing the heated argument. Even the people inside the bar turned their heads and watched.

At that instant, everyone's attention was on the commotion before their eyes.

The arrogance of the couple convinced Trevor that the matter couldn't be resolved peacefully.

His sneer deepened as he retorted, "Apologize to your girlfriend? You must be dreaming. She stepped on my foot. Why should I apologize?"

He turned to the girl. "How dare you accuse me and demand I ask for forgiveness when I didn't do anything to you? Is your makeup so thick that you've become shameless?"

Then facing Paul, Trevor scoffed. "And you, dumbass. Why are you hanging out with a girl like her? You sure have strange taste for women."

Trevor's uninhibited remarks instantly sent the couple to the roof.

"You bastard, what did you say? If you ever run your foul mouth again, I'll tear it apart with my bare hands!" The girl's eyes burned with rage. "Paul, did you hear him? Do something! Teach this bastard a lesson!"

Paul was also fuming. Flashing a cold, menacing grin, he hurled his fist at Trevor.

"I'll make you regret what you said, bastard!"

Paul advanced forward with his fist in the air.

Trevor didn't even flinch, finding Paul's attack slow and weak.

Without much effort, Trevor caught Paul's fist before it landed on his face.

Paul's grin stiffened. He tried to pull his fist back, but Trevor's hold was so firm that he couldn't break free.

"Let me go, you bastard! Or I'll kill you!"

But Trevor didn't budge. No matter how hard he tried, Paul couldn't get his hand back.

A taunting smile escaped Trevor's lips. "Really? I'm so scared."

Paul yelled. "Damn you! I said let go of me right now!"

Trevor's taunting smile deepened as he loosened his grip while Paul fervently wriggled his hand to get away.

Because it was a sudden move, Paul was caught off guard.

The moment Trevor released him, he lost his balance and fell heavily to the ground. "Damn it! You'll pay for this!"

Trevor gazed down and warned him coldly, "Don't be too full of yourself, or you'll regret it."

Paul was red with fury. "Get lost, you son of a bitch!"

He got on his feet and lifted his leg to kick Trevor.

While everyone gasped and screamed in fright, Trevor caught Paul's ankle, stopping the attack.

"Son of a bitch! Let go! Let go of me now!" Paul struggled to keep his balance as he was only standing in one foot.

Seeing Paul's situation, the girl shouted ferociously, "You bastard! Let go of him!"

She hurled her leg to throw a kick at Trevor.

He would surely squirm in pain once her heel hit him. If she kicked strong enough, she might take him down at once.

Trevor moved fast.

After taking a step back, he pulled Paul and positioned him as a shield. As a result, the pointy heel of the girl's shoe hit Paul's thigh instead of Trevor's.

"Ow!"

Paul howled in pain, his scream more shrill and excruciating than that of the animals in the slaughterhouse.

Trevor loosened his grip, making Paul do the split. Paul winced at the unexpected drop, feeling like his balls had cracked from the impact.

"That's what you get for being arrogant." Trevor clapped his hands twice as if dusting off dust and sneered.

The onlookers burst into laughter after seeing Paul slumped to the ground.

Grabbing his aching balls and enduring the pain from his injured leg, Paul cried out louder.

Fear, anger, and humiliation were written all over the girl's face.

She helped Paul up in a hurry and tottered away with him before everyone's eyes.