

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free,Chapter 551

551 IS IT NOT DIRTY?

Cane woke up because Iris was not by his side. He must be very tired, until he felt asleep too deep and not realized when his mate slipped from his arms and got out of the carriage.

But then, his heart gave a start when he heard the commotion out there, thinking something had happened and the thought Iris was out of his sight made him jump to his feet and rushed out of the carriage, only to find this white furball was the caused of the commotion.

"What that creature is doing here?!" Cane growled darkly. He looked around, looking for a certain someone. If this lazy bear was here, the owner must be nearby. 2

Iris and Ethan almost jumped out of their skin to hear how vicious and dangerous Cane's voice was, even Lil Thing covered its eyes with its paws, as if by doing that, it could hide itself from the angry predator before it.

"Cane." Iris immediately stood up and approached him. The lizard on her shoulder jumped toward Ethan, seeking for shelter. "You are awake," Iris said cheerfully, as she hugged him and gave a kiss on his cheek to soothe his annoyance.

However, Cane didn't seem to notice that, as he kept looking around and Iris knew who he was trying to find. 1

"It's only the white bear," Iris said in calm voice, while Cane put his arms around her body protectively. He had been having a headache and was so spent with everything that was going on, thus the last thing he wanted was to have to deal with a certain people he didn't like. 2

"Ethan, ask Jace about his whereabouts and keep his eyes on him."

"Got it. I have sent a hawk to ask about it," Ethan replied immediately, the gamma knew what he needed to do and now everyone could see the extent of their alpha's possessiveness over his mate. "We just need to wait for his reply."

Hearing that, Cane didn't say another word, but instead turned around and left to their carriage with Iris close to him.

"But, what about with this bear? What we are going to do with it?" Ethan asked. They wouldn't stay for long, because once they had rested to eat, they would continue their journey again and this bear didn't look like it was going to be able to keep up with them.

Cane glanced over his shoulders, his eyes were cold when he saw the bear was still covering its eyes with its paws.

"The bear is big enough for dinner." 2

Iris sucked in cold breath when she heard that. "Cane!" she protested, but the alpha didn't seem to care, as he helped Iris to get into the carriage and closed the door.

On the other hand, the corner of Ethan's lips twitched. "He is joking, right?" 1

"I don't want to eat bear meat," Aliana said, standing beside the gamma and glanced at the adorable white bear.

Not long after, there was a reply from Jace, telling them the merchant was still in the pack and he didn't seem to care his pets roamed around and followed the entourage, which meant, he wouldn't send someone to pick up this white fur and Ethan opted to send one of the warriors to bring the bear back to the pack.

However, the bear didn't want to go. It literally sprawled its limbs on the ground and due to its huge body and fatness, no one was able to move it. This bear was too heavy! After all, it was thrice their size and seemingly weighed ten of them.

In the end, Ethan chose one warrior to stay with the bear and try to get in touch with Jace to ask Lou to pick up his pet.

But, when the entourage was moving, the bear got up and walked in the end of the entourage as well, following them again, even though it was hardly keeping up with their pace, but they would see its white fur in the distance. 2

Celia was happy to see the white bear, she was currently in the same carriage with Haco and Joel, as she chirped happily to make the bear move a little bit faster, so it could catch up with them.

"Why I should be your sitter?" Dean grumbled, walking beside the bear.

In the evening, when they finally stopped, the bear collapsed. Its tongue lured to the side, as it laid down on its back.

"Is it dead?" Aliana asked Dean. She grimaced. She made a bet with Eth that the bear would give up and they would eventually lose it, but it actually made it.

Needless to say, she lost the bet.

"Nah, I think it only passed out," Dean replied. "It seems we need to hunt more to feed this creature."

Indeed. They really needed to hunt more because aside from snacking on magic stone, the bear ate a lot.

"Where are you going?" Cane asked, he put down the report he was reading when Iris wriggled out of his arms.

"I want to see the bear," Iris replied lightly, as she put on her cloak and was about to go out of the carriage, but Cane stopped her.

"You don't need to." The alpha frowned, unhappy. "Someone has taken care of that creature." Iris grinned and teased him. "I thought you are going to make it for dinner."

Cane growled because Iris was daring enough to throw his words back to his face. In one swift move, he pinned her down on the bed.

This carriage was spacious enough for both of them to sleep comfortably and Haco had put magic around it, so no one from outside could hear the noise from inside. This was the same carriage that Cane took from the Riverside pack.

"You become so bold nowadays, Iris," Cane said with his hoarse voice, as he held both of her arms beside her body and nibbled on her earlobe. 1

"Cane!" Iris squirmed, trying to get away from his assault, but she had nowhere to go when he trapped her with his body.

"I want to see how bold you can be," Cane whispered to her ear and this made Iris blush when he licked her neck, leaving wet kisses along her collarbones and now Iris was lightheaded, as she could feel the atmosphere changed.

Cane let go of her hands and lifted her leg, as he caressed her inner thigh, which sent shiver down her spine. Iris breathed heavily when Cane lowered the collar of her dress and kissed her chest.

"Cane... I am still in my monthly circle..." Iris reminded him hoarsely, her voice was shaking and ashamed, but she couldn't deny it, every time Cane touched her in certain way, she felt like her skin was on fire.

Cane lifted his head and stared at her face that flushed red, her lips slightly parted and Cane had this dark urge to shove his tongue inside. 1

"Do you mind it?" Cane asked and Iris's blue eyes widened in surprise with the suggestion behind his question.

"I- is it not dirty?" Iris stuttered.

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free, Chapter 552

552 THE BOND WAS GETTING STRONGER

Iris didn't have any idea if you could do it during your monthly cycle, but then she was rather clueless and was so blind about this kind of thing.

Indeed, there were a lot of things she needed to learn and she started to think to find some book about it, but then, the thought of reading this kind of book made her blush.

Where she should find a book with this kind of topic and how she could ask about it? 1

"As long as you are comfortable, it will be fine..." Cane said. He didn't continue and wait for his mate to decide what she wanted.

Iris bit her lip lightly, thinking what she wanted, but it was hard to decide and think clearly when her mind was so dirty and her desire for her mate clouded her decision.

On the other hand, Iris didn't realize how her small gesture was affecting Cane so much, as he had a hard time to hold himself back from devouring her whole.

This whole debacle only lasted for less than a minute, it felt like eternity for the two of them when Iris pecked on Cane's lips shyly. She lowered her gaze and put her hand over Cane's, which rested on her thigh, but she didn't push it away.

In Cane's eyes, she looked so adorable when she didn't want to admit it openly what she really wanted and was too shy to ask him to continue.

Cane nuzzled her neck and caressed her thigh again, pulling her closer to him. "You smell so good," he said hoarsely, which made Iris feel great.

She was not sure why, but she liked it whenever Cane talked to her during their intimate moment, especially when he complimented her. Somehow, she believed it.

Iris believed it when Cane said she was beautiful and adorable, she believed it when Cane said she smelled so good and how he desired her. She believed him when he said he enjoyed the moment they shared together.

Cane made her feel great, not only with the way he touched her, but the way he spoke to her and how he was very attentive and careful with her. 3

Even though, there was a moment when his control slipped and he became a little bit rough with her, but then he immediately realized it and made sure she was fine.

Iris loved every moment with him and this was feeling she couldn't describe into words.

It almost felt like the world could crumble out there and she wouldn't notice it....It didn't take long before they fell into the throes of passionate night.

Cane kissed Iris bare shoulder, as she was in deep sleep, unaware of her surroundings. The alpha had just finished to wipe and clean her up after their intimate moment.

Thankfully, there was not many blood on the sheet, because more than this, Cane would have thought he had hurt her again, but seeing how she was sleeping peacefully gave a smile on his lips. His usually cold eyes softened a little bit every time he looked at her.

Tonight was rather warm, thus it wouldn't be a problem to leave Iris without any clothes for a little bit longer, as he admired her nakedness and how comfortable she was for being vulnerable with him.

Cane traced his fingers along her spine and ended on two cute dimples on her bottom. The sight of her scars gave a bitter taste in his mouth, as he leaned over and kissed all of her scars, licked them, as if he could heal them by doing so.

If there was a shifter looked for Cane, they might end up found Iris instead, as she was reeked of his scent by now.

Cane then straightened his back and caressed his finger on her lips, cheeks, nose, eyes... he wanted to touch her everywhere. Heaven. 1

He couldn't imagine how he could sleep by her side without having any desire to devour her for all those months they were together, because right now, he seemed to have a hard time to get her out of his mind or to keep his hand to himself. 2

In the end, Cane waited the morning to come, while staring at Iris, touching her hair, caressing her back, or poking her cheeks, which one point, Iris furrowed her brows and the alpha simply smiled because his silly action bothered her.

He felt like he would never get enough of her.

Was it because the mate bond finally worked between them and their feeling for each other was getting stronger because of that? Cane was not sure how to put it or how to explain the strong feeling he had for her. 1

It was almost a year now. It reached the point where Cane knew Iris longer than he knew his own destined mate, Leane.

With Leane, it was easy. There was only love for his destined mate ever since they met with each other, it was beautiful and smooth.

However, with Iris, Cane had gone through various emotions, from hatred to compassion. He lost himself in his own rage and revenge, where he thought days were so bleak with so many schemes and deaths. Yet, Iris was an array of light in his darkest times.

Cane thought his heart had been hardened, he thought it had turned into a solid stone, but later on, he learned that it was broken and it was how Iris found a way to enter his heart. Because light wouldn't be able to come in if there was no crack, right?

It was not easy when he was with her, either it was the relationship between them, or the situation that surrounded them.

There was a long journey ahead of them and Cane didn't wish to tread this path with no one else, but her.

Cane leaned over and kissed her bare shoulder. "Thank you," he whispered softly and genuinely.

Only when the noise from outside grew a little bit louder as they prepared to leave before the sunrise, Cane reluctantly left the carriage and put the blanket over Iris's body.

He walked toward the white bear and stared at the creature, which was still sleeping soundly on the ground. Its fur had turned brown because of dirt and it looked so pitiful.

"I thought, Iris would come to check on this bear, I am surprised to see you here," Eth an said, as he approached Cane, who was staring at Lil Thing, the gamma was slightly worried the alpha would behead this silly bear in its sleep.

Cane only glanced at his gamma. Of course, he had taken care of the matter with Iris and she wouldn't be bothered by this bear for another hours. 2

The alpha resumed his callous demeanor whenever his mate was not around. Some warrior even felt so hard to approach him, because the alpha was too intimidating, thus they were always dumbstruck to the sight of how easy the luna was with him. 1

"Will Lou pick up his pet?" Cane asked and Ethanscrunched his nose.

"The merchant said Lil Thing is a gift for Iris, so she can keep this bear." He scratched his head when he felt anger exuded from Cane.