

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free, Chapter 570

570 THAT 'THING'

Iris woke up early in the morning and immediately found out Cane was not sleeping in the bedroom, because the side of her bed was still so neat, there was no trace of him whatsoever. She had been so used to wake up to him, thus it felt so strange when she found herself was alone 1 again.

Instead, it was Aliana, who greeted her.

"Don't give me that disappointed look," Aliana said, pouting her lips to feign being angry with Iris for giving her such look. "Don't be too disappointed, the alpha washere last night to check on you when you were sleeping..."

"Why he didn't wake me up? Why he didn't stay?" Iris cut Aliana's explanation. If Cane came over, why he didn't stay and leave immediately?

"Luna, the alpha needs to take care about alot of things, he changed the plan all of sudden and there were a lot of members ofthis pack that need to be treated after the attack. I am very sure the alpha really wanted to spend the night with you." Aliana winked at Iris, but it didn't lift her spirit. 1

Iris knew she became so childish and demanded too much, but she couldn't help it, the feeling of being abandoned crept in her heart. She could say, it was not the feeling she wished for anyone to feel. The level of anxiety she felt was insane to think Cane didn't want her anymore.

"Where is Cane?"

"I think the alpha is with Ethan now, theyare overlooking this pack and strengthen the territory around the pack house."

"I want to see him," Iris stated, in that case, Aliana couldn't stop her from leaving.

"Okay, but you still need to have yourbreakfast, okay." Aliana helped Iris to clean herself and get ready for the day.

However, Aliana was clueless with what to do with Iris's hair, aside from from styling it into a half bun.

"You don't know?" Aliana was surprised when she asked how to style her hair like the previous day. "Who did it then?"

"Cane did it," Iris said casually, because that was the truth. Before, Hanna would help Iris with her hair and recently, Cane had been such an expert when it came to her hair, he styled her hair better than Iris could. 1

"The alpha did it?!" Aliana was shocked when she learned about it. Ethan must have left this detail in his exaggerated story, or maybe his story was not exaggerated at all. "He did your hair?" 1

Iris looked at Aliana over the mirror in front of her and watched how her jaw dropped in disbelief. 1

"How could you make the alpha do it?"

"I didn't do anything." Iris shook her head.

"When did he start do it for you?"

Iris tried to think about that. "We spent some time on our way back to the Riverside pack and I think he was bored because it was only the two of us, so he did my hair." That explanation didn't help with Aliana's shock, if anything, she became even more speechless. Never she would imagine the alpha was so bored out of his mind and was very idle to learn how to style his mate's hair.

"The alpha must have loved you so much for him to put such an effort." 1

It was a small thing, but you would be able to see how much that person loved you through small things they put their effort into to make your life easier.

Iris grimaced when she heard that. "Cane never said that he loves me," she confided to Aliana. She had never talked about her feeling to someone else, not even with Hanna, because of the way she positioned herself in Iris's life.

Hanna cared for her and there was no doubt in that statement, but Hanna would never be Iris's friend, she would take care of her and always saw her as her 'missy', which with Aliana it was different. 1 Aliana could be a big sister that she had never had and some time, she would be this mischievous friend with wild imagination, which made Iris feel so giddy to hear her crazy thought or how she complained about the warriors and reprimanded them. 1

It felt so refreshing to have Aliana around, while she also taught Iris to know more about the Howling Wolf pack, something that Cane had never done before, since he had a lot of things in his hands.

"Luna," Aliana said gently. "You must have noticed by now, the alpha will talk more and explain things into a certain detail, something that he wouldn't do to any of us. Do you know how Ethan threw a tantrum because he said the alpha played favorite, since he always answered your question, but not his?"

Iris giggled when she heard how Aliana was roasting on Ethan so casually.

"The alpha is not good to explain his feeling, but his action must have told you as clear as day how precious you are to him." Aliana ended up putting Iris's hair into a half bun. 1

Deep down, Iris knew about that, she felt it whenever Cane tried to make things easier for her and how he compromised a lot. Even though, she still wanted to hear how he said those words, but she thought, she would be content with it right now. Aliana's words lit up her spirit a little bit.

"Oh, luna, I think it will be fine if you were a little bit bold," Aliana said again with this mischievous smile on her lips. "You know that the alpha has been stressed out lately and I think you can cheer him up."

"How?" Iris was listening attentively, if Aliana had an idea how to cheer Cane, she was willing to do anything, not to mention her guilty feeling was still lingering.

Aliana winked at her. "This is the thing that only you can do it," she said secretly.

"Only me?" Iris frowned.

"Oh, luna..." Aliana grimaced when she realized how innocent the luna was. "That 'thing', you can make him feel better."

"What 'thing'?" Iris became frustrated, she narrowed her eyes, became impatient. 2

"Some time, you need to take the initiative. I don't know with the alpha, but I think some men like it." And when Aliana realized Iris still couldn't get it, she lowered her head and whispered to her ear and whatever she said made Iris's face turned red and Aliana had the audacity to laugh at her upon seeing her reaction.

"Aliana!" Iris wanted to cry out of embarrassment, while she didn't stop laughing. 1

"Serafim, this is my poor great grandson..."Koda didn't waste his time, the moment the Serafim arrived at his pack along with her entourage after they managed to pass the territory, he immediately took her to his great grandson's nursery room. "He is being cursed by the dark magic user in the palace!" "We just arrived, can't you wait until we take a rest for a while?" Liam protested, but Abby stopped him.

"Let me see your great grandson," Abby said. She walked gracefully, as she entered the nursery room and met with princess Laluna and the baby in her arms.

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free, Chapter 571

571 THE CURSED BABY

They named the baby after his father. Vemion. It was a devastating moment for Laluna to learn how she lost her mate because of the lycan only a few weeks before she supposed to give birth to Vemion's first child. 1

Not to mention everything fell apart after that moment. A lot of things had happened and Laluna felt like she was not able to keep up with the drastic change that surrounded her life.

From losing her mate to be the mother of the future king of this kingdom and then the unrest in the capital city, where she had to leave and go back to her pack for the protection, but only then she realized her baby was being cursed and now they were so desperate to find a cure for her baby.

They would do everything to save little Vemion, because this less than three months old baby held a great power and a valid reason for them to fight for the throne, without the baby, the v would be seen as a rebellion pack, as they lost the case, the reason why they were in hot water with the royal family.

It was not they cared about the baby, but the value that came with him that they cared the most.

Laluna felt ill to her stomach whenever she remembered that fact.

"Serafim," Laluna greeted her, as she curtsied with the baby in her arms, but Abby immediately stopped her, so she didn't need to bend her body.

"Let me check on your son," Abby said softly, she glanced at the baby, but she couldn't find anything. The baby was currently sleeping now, but there was no indication of dark magic apparently.

But then, Abby couldn't determine the answer without having a thorough check on the baby. Her power was not strong enough to tell whether or not the baby was cursed by the dark magic without any visible sign. 5

"Yes, please save my son, Serafim," Laluna said with a grief tone. She walked backward toward Vemion's cribs and laid him there.

"Can you tell me what happened with him?" Abby needed all the information she could get to determine how to purify the dark magic, if the poor baby was indeed being cursed. 2

Laluna then told the Serafim about how her baby would cry for hours to no end and would often have a seizure, which freaked them out. The baby would bleed from his orifices.

"And this..." Laluna unswaddled the baby and showed his rash skin, they looked so horrified to be on the little one, it looked so painful and Abby gasped in surprise. "What should we do, Serafim? Can you lift the dark magic? The people in the palace are so cruel to attack my baby." 2

Koda stepped forward and pleaded with the Serafim as well, of course, he didn't forget to insert a few insults toward the royal family, so the Serafim would help more with their cases.

"I believe you can lift the curse, right?" Koda said with expectant tone, while staring at the Serafim, who was silent the whole time.

Iris was having a hard time to find Cane. When she arrived at the place, where he supposed to be there, he had gone a few minutes earlier, as if someone had told him that Iris was coming over and he left immediately.

No matter what Aliana said to reassure her that was unintentional, Iris knew Cane was trying to avoid her. Was he that mad at her, until he didn't want to see her? Iris became even more frustrated. She went to the tent, where they treated the injured people after the attack last time.

Iris needed to do something, to distract her mind from thinking too much about Cane's action. She really regretted it for defying him, especially in front of his people. If she could, she would rather to have Cane reprimanded her and snapped back at her when she didn't oblige than to have him ignored her like this.

Iris felt so miserable. ① "Cane, how long do you want to avoid her?" Ethan sighed deeply, as he watched Iris was sitting next to Lil Thing and caressed the white fur creature with blank expression after she helped with the injured people inside the tent. 1

The ga mma stood next to his alpha, who was stubborn enough not to approach his mate and chose to look at her from afar.

"I know you are upset because she didn't listen to you, but shouldn't you talk things out, instead of avoiding her?" Ethan asked, both his alpha and luna looked miserable and it affected him as well. He didn't like this tension between them. 2

However, the truth was not as simple as it seemed on the surface, it was not only because of her action that made Cane became even more closed off, but also because of his recent decision.

After all, killing your enemy was an easy job compared to killing your own people...

Ethan stopped his rambling when Cane glanced at him. It was enough to tell the ga mma that he messed up again. "What the news from the Red Claw pack?" Cane asked callously.

"Oh, Koda wrote that the Seraphim has started the treatment for his great grandson and now they are waiting the progress of it," Ethan immediately replied, afraid Cane would be more upset. "They also tried to reach out to Celestial Moon pack to make alpha Derick side with them, especially when the royal had killed Kade."

Kade was the previous king's righthand man from Celestial Moon pack. He was killed because alpha Derick sheltered prince Kellan, which his action showed which side the alpha had decided on.

"It seems they really do the plan you have set for them," Ethan said with a grin. "But, if you think about it again, they don't have a prominent figure to strategize their next move. You have made them rely on you so bad, Cane! You awed me again!" Oh, of course, the gamma didn't forget with the praise, hoping he could get out from Cane's bad side after his rambling.

"The warrior from the Bloody Wolf pack will arrive soon, go and delegate their task," Cane said, he didn't even bother to listen how his gamma tried to flatter him.

"There are around two hundred and fifty of them... can't you give me Oliver to help?" Ethan then blinked his eyes, as if he just realized something. "I have not yet seen him after our fight, have you sent him somewhere?" 1

Cane's eyes darkened slightly with the mention of Oliver's name. "I sent him back to the Riverside pack to overlook the construction tunnel there."

"Ah! That's why I have not yet seen him!" Ethan clicked his tongue. "You don't need to send him away, we just have disagreement, that's all." Ethan felt bad for Oliver but, his eyes lit up. "But, I am happy you side with me!"

Cane threw him a dagger look. "If you think I did it for you, you can stop your delusion."

Ethan's smile disappeared almost immediately, as he pouted. "I thought you care about me so much.... Where are you going?!" Cane didn't have time to listen to Ethan's complain, so he turned and left in Ethan's midsentence.

"Can't I have Aliana to help, at least?! Cane! Alpha!" Ethan chased after Cane.

And with that, Iris didn't see Cane for a whole three days. Aliana would tell her that Cane came to visit her in the middle of the night when she had fallen asleep and then left without staying by her side. 1

On the third day when they supposed to leave this pack, Iris still couldn't manage to meet with Cane and her guilty feeling turned into frustration and now she was angry. Her mood instantly ruined when she saw the spot next to her was empty again this morning.

You could tell how bad mood the luna was when she glared at the warrior, who told her the alpha just left before she arrived at the training ground.

The tent had been put down and the injured people were fine now. There were new addition to their entourage, it was the warrior from the Bloody Wolf pack, but Cane had given an instruction for the additional warrior to guard at their outer part, so Iris had not yet seen any of them.

"Luna, come here, quick!" Aliana took away a bowl of water from her and then grabbed her hand to take her somewhere.

"What happened?" Iris looked confused, as she ran beside Aliana in this long corridor. It didn't take long until she was out of breath. Yes, her health had improved, thanks to Grace, but it didn't mean she could run next to a shifter like Aliana and kept up the pace with her.

"I found where is the alpha, we need to hurry, or else, he will runaway again!" Aliana said enthusiastically. She didn't slow down at all, forcing Iris to move her legs faster.

The way Aliana talked about Cane, made it sound like the alpha was a runaway prisoner or something.

Once they arrived at the greenhouse, where you could see Cane's figure through the glasses with another three warriors, Iris felt lightheaded. She had never run this fast in her entire life. pushed Iris into the greenhouse and the next thing Iris knew, she had interrupted an important discussion.

"Luna Iris." The other three warriors greeted Iris and nodded at her, but Cane had this flat expression, it was hard to tell what was in his mind.

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free, Chapter 572

572 SOMETHING THE HEALER COULDN'T HEAL

Being stared at like this and knowing how she had interrupted their discussion, making Iris wanted to apologize and back down. The door was behind her and all she needed was to turn around and then left.

But then, she would lose her chance to talk with Cane...

"Uhm... Can you leave us for a while?" Iris asked timidly, trying so hard to look firm, but she failed in that part. "Please..." She was very nervous.

She became even more depressed when those three warriors turned to their alpha, waiting for him to say something about the order from their luna.

Iris assumed Cane would ask her to leave. It would be embarrassing, but she could understand if Cane did that.

However, the alpha wouldn't put his luna in such position. He wouldn't intentionally embarrass her. 1

"You hear the luna's order," Cane said after a long pause, as he stared at Iris's defeated expression, thinking he would turn her down.

Only then, Iris could sigh in relief. Her shoulders visibly relaxed a bit.

Hearing what the alpha said, the three warriors immediately left the scene, because even them, could feel the heavy atmosphere that shrouded their alpha and luna. They knew the two of them were not in a good term, because of what happened that day.

And somehow, they wished the two of them would be able to fix their problem, because recently the alpha was very scary. He looked like he had this murderous intention around him and that was too much for them.

"What do you want, Iris?" Cane asked. Surprisingly, his voice was so gentle, because Iris expected he would snarl at her for interrupting him with his warriors and became defiant again. What should I say? I am sorry? Why did you ignore me? Do you still mad at me?

Iris had been thinking what she was going to say when she met with Cane again, but now, she was not sure what to say, her throat was tightened and her eyes welled up with tears, she became very emotional.

"If there is nothing, you want to say, I will leave." Cane even didn't use the door behind Iris, though it was closer, he tended to use the door behind him and avoided her again. He didn't even want to be in the close proximity with her. 2

What was wrong? Did he that mad? Like, mad mad very mad with her? What she could do to fix it?

Out of desperation and didn't know what to do, Instead of talking and starting to explain why she was there, Iris yelled at him.

"Cane! Stop right there!" Iris shouted at him out of impulse, because she watched how Cane was going to leave. 1

This managed to make Cane stop and glance at her over his shoulder in disbelief. "First, you defied me and now you ordered me?" His tone was so dark it laced with perplexion. Did he give her enough guts to be this bold to him? 3

Iris bit her lip, she felt like her body was getting smaller under his intense gaze, she didn't dare to raise her head and stared at the ground beneath her feet. She waited, thinking Cane would start to scold her or something, but instead of doing that, the alpha simply resumed walking away from her. 2

"Cane, wait!" Iris hastily raised her head and chased after her, she knew if Cane really wanted to walk away from her, he could do that with ease, she couldn't physically hold him back.

Therefore, out of desperation, Iris tried to reach Cane before he could walk out of this greenhouse, her plan was very simple, she would clutch onto him with all the strength she had and wouldn't let him go until he agreed to talk to her and stop ignoring her.

However, it was very unfortunate for her that her short legs didn't want to cooperate. Her feet tripped on something on the ground and she stumbled. She lost her balance and her head hit one of the racks, which caused all the pots to fall. 2

Iris shrieked as she watched those pots fall on her and then closed her eyes in fear. Not only the pots, but the rack was about to collapse as well. She braced herself for the pain, but the next thing she felt, was someone pulled her forward and her face was pressed against his sturdy chest, as she could hear the rumble groans from inside his chest and also the sound of broken pot around them.

It was scary, but Iris knew it was Cane, who was holding her tightly, protecting her from her clumsiness.

Only when the scary sound of the broken pots stopped, Cane released Iris and checked on her immediately. His eyes became so dark and the frown between his brows looked so scary when he saw her forehead swollen, it must be because she had hit her head against the rack.

However, the alpha became even more fearful of me when Iris started to cry.

She didn't cry because her head was in pain, she didn't even care about the pain, but she cried because she saw how much Cane worried about her and this made her relieved, which caused her to cry, thinking she was going to lose him, since he had been ignoring her.

Such relief feeling made she wanted to cry and once she did, she couldn't stop, while Cane became even more anxious to see her tears, thinking Iris was in so much pain.

The only visible wound that he could see was on her forehead, but there was no blood, aside from his. Some sharp shard from the broken pots must have cut him, but this kind of wounds were nothing for Cane.

Cane was silent when he picked Iris up carefully and walked out of this mess, the shards were crushed under his feet when he headed toward the exit door, while Iris hugged his neck tightly, as if she didn't want to let him go, still crying.

A few days ago, she defied him and only less than five minutes ago, she shouted an order to him and now she was crying desperately.

Cane was half running to reach Grace in her room, but there was Joel and Celia inside, the young warrior just received treatment from the healer, while Celia accompanied him, they were about to leave when the alpha stormed inside and startled them all. It almost felt like there was a monster barged into this room, as they could feel a dangerous aura came from the alpha.

"Leave!" Cane growled, as he put Iris on the bed, but her mate refused to let go of his neck. She clutched onto him like she was being glued to him.

On the other hand, Celia immediately pushed Joel's wheelchair, the little girl was so scared to see the alpha was enraged and wanted to leave immediately. Joel took a glance at the alpha, looking worried, but he would be crazy if he insisted to stay. In less than a minute, both him and Celia were already out of the room and the healer closed the door behind them. "Wh- what happened?" Grace asked, approaching Cane and stared at Iris.

"She is hurt," Cane said grimly.

"Hurt?" Grace came closer, she couldn't see where Iris was hurt and not able to smell blood from her. "Can I see where do you hurt?"

Iris refused to lay down and bury her face against the crook of Cane's neck, she didn't want to let him go. This was her plan after all. The more Cane tried to pry himself out of her arms, the more Iris tightened her grip on him, while Grace could only see her back. 1

"Luna, can I see where did you hurt yourself? I promise I will be quick," Grace coaxed her, but then she was speechless when Iris started to straddle Cane, because he was going to free himself from her forcefully, so Grace could check on her injury. 2

"No!" Iris said sternly. Her voice was so hard and harsh.

Judging by her voice alone, Grace knew, she was fine, or at the very least, whatever injury she sustained it was not a life threatening one.

But seriously, she felt so awkward to watch their position right now.

There was time when Grace saw the alpha acted strangely, like he was not himself, but at this moment, it was the luna. How she could straddle the alpha in the presence of other people?!

"Alpha, I think the luna is fine. Probably, she is only shock from what had happened, so it will be better to let her calm down, I will make a concoction to calm her nerves." Grace tactfully made an excuse to leave this room. She bolted to ward the door once the alpha nodded, leaving the two of them alone. 1

But, outside of the room, she met with Aliana, who was grinning from ear to ear. "How is the luna? Why are you going out? The alpha asked you to go?"

Grace frowned, this sister of the beta was rather cunning and she knew that. "I want to make a concoction for the luna, it seems she is in shock."

"Nah!" Aliana waved her hand and put her arm around Grace shoulder, as she walked her over. "Don't bother them, at least for the next ten to twelve hours." 2

"What?!" Grace wanted to swat Aliana's hand away, as she walked her toward different direction.

"Trust me, my friend, there are a lot of things that you can't heal," Aliana grinned.

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free, Chapter 573

573 MY APOLOGY

Iris kept hugging Cane desperately, as if he was going to disappear if she loosened her arms on his neck, still crying. 1

"Let Grace to check on your wound, okay?" Cane sighed deeply, he leaned his back against the wall, sitting on the bed with Iris on top of him. She was glued to him, so close, he could feel her beating heart against his chest. Her scent engulfed him and he couldn't help, but felt so relax.

He missed this scent, he missed holding her so close, he missed her. .. 2

The past three days he couldn't sleep well, his nightmare returned without her by his side. Not only Cane was able to sleep for just two to three hours at night, but at day, he had to suppress the lycan as well, as the black wisp kept appearing every now and then. The lycan became so restless and agitated for not spending enough time with her. 2

"No!" Iris whimpered. "You are hurt."

"You hurt me..." 1

Cane gave up. He stopped his attempt to push her away, instead he hugged her and caressing her hair and back, soothing her anxiety.

For a long moment, they stayed like that, without saying anything and only enjoying each other company, because heaven was when the two of them were alone, forgetting their misery and trouble of the world out there for a moment.

"Let me see your wound," Cane said when Iris already calmed down enough and stopped crying. "Or else, it will leave scar."

Reluctantly, Iris raised her head and stared at him with swollen eyes, her face was so red, especially her nose, which Cane kissed gently. He kissed her swollen forehead too and Iris flinched.

"Hurt?"

"It's nothing compare to the pain in here." Iris pointed her finger at her heart. "You keep ignoring me and it hurt me so much. I feel like someone stabbed me with a rusty dagger and twisted it viciously. I want to apologize for the way I acted that day, I know I was at fault, but you didn't give me a chance at all. You hurt me so much, you said you will not hurt me intentionally." ②

Iris couldn't help it, she poured her heart in order for Cane to know how miserable she was in the past three days, so he would know how she felt. She used to talk about her feeling openly and now she put so much effort let him knew how much she regretted her action that day and how sorry she was for challenging his authority in front of his people.

What she did was not acceptable in this continent, as a woman, you should oblige the man in your life. That was how this world worked. It was unheard of a luna or any mistresses, no matter how favored they were to challenge the man that owned them.<sup>1</sup>

"I am sorry, I am truly sorry..." A silence tear fell on her cheek and Cane leaned over to kiss it. "Forgive me..." "Iris," Cane called her name softly, but firmly. "In the future, I don't want you to challenge my order again," he said. "If I said you go left, you will go left. If I said you to go, you must go, no question asked. Even if I asked you to leave me behind, you need to do it without turning back, understood?" 2

Iris frowned. She didn't like the sound of the last sentence. "How can I leave you behind?" She was unhappy and Cane knew, she would focus on that part.

"Because I want you to be safe. I don't want people to judge you, if you want to disagree with me, do it behind the closed door, I will take your opinion into consideration, but never disagree with me in public. I don't want to be forced to discipline my own luna." 2

It was a tradition in this continent, women didn't have voice in regards of men's decision and no matter how much Cane favored Iris, challenging him in front of his people wouldn't look good on the two of them. Cane didn't want there was a negative word around Iris if he could help it.<sup>1</sup> He knew firsthand how a rumor and that kind of stuff could ruin your reputation and put you in a damaging and disadvantageous situation.

"Okay," Iris said in small voice, but then she added. "Now I can protect myself also, you know." She couldn't help it, but bragged about how she killed a lot of enemies during the last attack from the Silver Warrior. "I squeezed their wolf spirits and your warriors could kill them easily."

"Our."

"Hm? What?"

"Our warriors, Iris," Cane corrected her, he had been wanting to emphasize this, but the moment was not right, only now he could bring this up. "Our warriors, Iris. They are our warriors, our people, our pack don't draw the line."

1

Iris lowered her gaze, but Cane pinched her chin, so she could look at him in the eyes. "I know most of them started to hate me again because of the royal warrior's provocation. I can feel their hostility toward me, Cane." Cane kissed her lips and both of her eyes. He couldn't do anything to change people's heart, he was not a mind controller either, this was an internal trouble that he couldn't fix. He couldn't dictate them about their point of view, that was why, he was adamant for Iris not to challenge him in public, just in case their hatred got worst. 1

He didn't want to be in a situation, where he must eliminate his own people, like he had done. His heart had been so heavy when Haco had done the job and he couldn't shake this feeling easily, more so when he couldn't talk about this to anyone else. This was a secret that he would bring to his grave. 4

Thankfully or rather unfortunately, Haco forgot everything that happened and their conversation that night, as he had been fiddling with his herbs now.

"I can only promise you don't need to deal with them." Cane caressed her cheek and Iris melted to his touch. "What about the five warriors?" Cane had seen how Aliana managed to get close to his mate effortlessly, while Eron and Dyne were not a problem.

"They are fine." Iris remembered all the things they talked about her when they thought she couldn't hear them.

"Iris, you know that you are not good at lying, right?"

"But, I am telling you the truth." Iris tried to show her innocent expression and then changed the topic. "Don't ignore me again, Cane. I would rather have you scolded me and punished me."

"You know I will never do that." Cane wrapped his arms under her thighs and lifted her up, as he stood up. Instinctively, Iris hugged his neck. "Get that green bottle and the white one." Because both of his arms supported Iris's body, he couldn't grab the bottle that was needed to clean her wound. "Also the cotton."

Iris grabbed all the items that Cane mentioned and he put her back on the bed again, this time, Iris didn't clutch onto him.

"This might sting a bit, hold on." Cane started to work to clean her wound, while Iris stared at him. He must have forgotten to ask Iris to promise him about what he had requested her, but there was no way, Iris would agree to leave him behind no matter what the circumstances they were in.

But again, no one knew what the future held for them. 1

"We are going to leave to Diadem pack tomorrow morning."

The number of casualties of Silver Warrior from the last attack was rather significant and Cane was sure with additional two hundred fifty warriors from the Bloody Wolf pack, they would think thrice to attack them again.

Cane had arranged someone to take care of the treasury of this pack and distributed it wisely to help this pack to go through winter, but his decision was solid, he wouldn't take this pack as part of his territory. There was nothing this pack could offer and the people here were in a 'special' condition, where they couldn't be accepted by another pack.

This was the best Cane could do for them. Later that night, the alpha finally could get his good night sleep, while holding his mate closed to him, while Iris slept contently within his arms. 2

However, little did they know, a beast managed to sneak into their bedroom. This creature seemed to know this place very well, which helped under this tight security.

The beast headed toward the bed slowly, its fangs bared and its sharp claws emerged, ready to tear its target into pieces.

The beast's brown eyes fell on the two people on the bed, hugging each other, as if they melted into one, and those atrocious brown eyes shifted at the au burn woman.

It was a golden opportunity to attack when they were not aware of their surroundings, became so fragile to danger, because they believed, their people would keep them safe. ①

It didn't take long before the beast locked its target on the woman. He was ordered to kill this certain woman, thus that was what he was going to do for an immeasurable amount of fortune. However, thing that he didn't expect was; the alpha was actually awake when the beast on the bedside, ready to kill the woman.

This cold feeling when there was another stronger predator around, shocked him to his core, especially when he saw those red eyes.

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free,Chapter 574

574 SPEECHLESS

Iris was woken up when she heard loud growls and snarls, followed by the door was being slammed opened and five to seven warriors poured inside the room. 1

She immediately covered herself with blanket and sat down, but her attention was on the door, those warriors were dumbstruck in their track upon seeing what was going on inside.

Once Iris followed their line of sight, Iris screeched, she quickly covered her mouth with her hands when she watched Cane ripped a beast's body, he twisted it limbs and removed it from its body. He threw its hindleg to the floor, while his expression filled with malice. 2

He did all of that in his human form, one could only imagine how strong he was to be able to fight a beast without shifting. 1

Iris watched Cane's side profile and when he tilted his head, finally noticed Iris was awake now, she could see how his eyes had turned so red.

Oh, hell no. It was Lu! The lycan took over Cane's body again.

Cane must be too tired to be able to suppress the lycan from coming to the surface, especially when he finally got his peaceful sleep. 1

"Don't look, my moon." His voice was extremely gentle, the contrast of his bloody hands and the gruesome scene he had created. "Close your eyes, my sweet moon."

Yes, it definitely him.

The sight was disturbing, but Iris could handle it, she had seen something as cruel as this before, yet still, she chose not to stare for long and directed her attention toward the seven warriors there.

They must not realize Cane's red eyes, because the alpha had his back against them, but when Cane turned around, he threw the bloody body of the headless beast without its limbs toward them, blood splattered everywhere and sprayed on their clothes when the body fell on the floor near their feet.

They gasped loudly and avoided to see the dead body and the alpha, they could sense the anger filled the room and how the atmosphere became so tensed.

"You bastard! Useless shifter!" The alpha roared angrily because their enemy managed to sneak inside the bedroom, he stalked closer toward them with his sharp claws emerged from the tip of his fingers. "You let this thing sneaked into this room!? What are you doing out there?! Fucking each other?!"

The seven warriors flinched, instinctively, they took a step back, because the dangerous aura that surrounded the alpha was so strong, they couldn't stand his dominant figure.

"O- our apologize, alpha..." They stammered, begging for the alpha's mercy, they knew they had messed up big time to not notice the enemy sneaked into the bedroom, such mistake deserved death as the punishment, because they had put their alpha in gravely dangerous situation. The alpha and the luna could be killed in their sleep!

"Apologize?!" the alpha sneered derisively. He and his mate's life could be offset by an apology? They must be still daydreaming now if they thought this matter would end here. "You can atone to your sins with your lives!"

Lu growled and charged forward, he was ready to kill these useless seven warriors, who failed their assignment. Killing intent from the alpha couldn't be mistaken and all of them froze in their place, were not able to move an inch.

It would be their doom, that was it, this would be the end of it, if it was not for the luna took action in time. 2

"LU!" Iris threw the blanket away and suppressed her urge to vomit when her barefoot felt the slicky blood on the floor, as she threw herself toward the lycan and hugged him from behind.

Lu roared angrily, but he didn't dare to shake Iris's body, neither he pushed her away. If he wanted, no matter how hard Iris stopped him, he would be able to kill these warriors off in a blink of an eye.

"Don't kill them, okay?" Iris pleaded softly. Cane would be devastated if he had to face with another death of his warriors. They just made up this afternoon and she didn't want to see him sad again, she could see how distraught he was upon losing his warriors.

If there would be a punishment, Cane should be the one, who decided it.

However, right now the lycan was livid beyond words!

"Useless mutt s like them don't deserve to be alive!" Lu growled at Iris, but he retracted his claws, just in case he hurt her. It pissed him off when this petite girl could stop him so easily. He should have moved faster...

On the other hand, Iris grimaced, because in a way, she had defied his words again, even after she promised him not to do so.

"Let's find another suitable punishment, okay?" Iris didn't loosen her arms around his hips, as she lifted her head to look at the lycan in the eyes.

"Do you want to torture them? Cut their limbs one by one and pull their hearts slowly?"

The corner of Iris's lips twitched, this lycan was seemingly creative enough with his torture method, while the seven warriors immediately fell on their knees and had their head against the floor, they didn't care with the blood, as they begged for mercy.

Yet, Lu ignored their cry, as he continued because Iris didn't seem interested with his first idea.

"Or do you want to cut their flesh inch by inch before they could heal themselves, so in the end, they will not have anything left. We can also force them to eat part of their flesh, let's see if it will increase their healing ability."

"Lu..." Iris spoke softly, she felt so dizzy by only listening to his cruelty.

Meanwhile, the warriors were too afraid for their own lives to realize Iris called the alpha with another name. "Or..."

Lu wanted to suggest another thing when Iris kissed his cheek. "Let's clean yourself from this blood, while we are thinking what punishment for them."

Lu stared at Iris, she was wearing her night gown in front of these mutts and he was not happy with that, especially when she dirtied herself with this useless beast, who tried to kill them.

"I told you to stay on the bed, now you are dirty."

"It's okay, let's clean up first and let them to clean this room too."

"Do you mean taking a bath together?"

Iris was speechless. "Yes." 1

"Okay."

With that, Lu forgot about punishing those warriors, at least for now, since he had another important thing to do.

"Clean this mess and call Ethan to see me," Iris ordered the seven of them, who were trembling in fear. They felt like their lives flashed before their eyes.

"Y- yes, yes, luna... thank you luna..."

If it was not for the luna intervention, they would have died by now, ended up like the beast before them, shredded to pieces...

They knew their alpha favored his mate, they also had witnessed how the luna left unscathed after defying his order, that event left them speechless, but what happened right now, showed how much the power that their luna held.

It was a risk that Iris had taken when she jumped onto an angry alpha, but she did that and it saved their lives, because they believed the alpha would kill them.

All of them lifted their head slightly, as they took a glance when the luna ushered the alpha into the bathroom and closed the door behind them.

They finally could breathe in relief when the alpha was out of their sight, the atmosphere felt a little bit lighter.

"I don't want to be on the luna's bad side..."one of the warriors muttered, as he fell onhis butt, staring blankly at the closed door of the bathroom. 1

The night fell into a deep silence, while the putrid smell of the blood filled the air. The seven warriors immediately got up and did what their luna had ordered them to do.

"Took off your clothes," Iris said, after sheprepared a bath for him, she put a few more stone into the water, so it would be warm enough.

"Okay," Lu obliged. He ripped his clothesand pants and within a second he was standing in front of Iris in his naked glory. "Do you want me to take off your dress?" 1

Iris was speechless. Her face turned so red to see Cane's naked body. Okay, it was not the first time for her to see him like this, but she still couldn't get used to it, unless they were in different situation.

"I-I will take off my dress later..." Irisstuttered a bit. "Get into the water, I will help you to clean the blood."

"We can bath together..." Lu whined, heapproached Iris. "Come on, take it off." He pulled on the string of her dress, like achild.

"Lu." At this point, Iris really wanted to cry,she was not sure she could go out of this situation easily.

"I miss you, that bastard didn't let me goout," Lu complained and Iris was not sure how to react. "Let's make a baby! You have never done it in the water, right? That man lacked of imagination. Come on! It will be fun!" 2

Lu leaned over and whispered to her ear, as he told her the things that he was going to do to her, how he would pleasure her, while Iris petrified.

Though it was Cane's body, but Iris felt like she was cheating if she did it with him.

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free,Chapter 575

Add to Library

Sign in

575 THE LYCAN THREW A TANTRUM

"Have you lost your mind, you idiot!?" Alan got a harsh slap on his face from his maternal grandfather. This old man was furious and even though he looked so old, but he held an immense strength, which could send Alan fell to the ground in one slap. 1

Yes, Alan was the king, he sat on the throne, but the real power came from this man. Zeke. His grandfather from his mother's side. He controlled everything and ruled anything, even people, who against them. They were the mind controller.

"You useless thing!" Zeke kicked Alan to the ground and did it a few times more, as he begged him to stop. He didn't dare to attack back, knowing he wouldn't stand a chance to fight him.

The only people in this room aside from the two of them were Corry, his advisor and the head of the royal sorcerer, Dexter, who was no other than Alan's uncle.

Corry looked mortified to witness how the king was being treated, but he understood the true power behind the throne and he was seeking for death if he was dare enough to interrupt, thus all he could do was to stand at the side, watching everything unfolded.

Alan spat out blood and one of his molars. He curled his body on the floor, whimpering and crying like a child, begging his grandfather to stop.

This was the king of the shifter kingdom, being assaulted in his own palace without anyone dare to stop it.

"You are so useless!" Zeke delivered a harsh kick one last time, which made Alan gasped loudly and then vomited.

The reason why Zeke was so enraged because Alan had given an order to alpha Gallot to come in contact with the Silver Warrior in the Silver River side pack to kidnap Cane's mate.

Alan was very impulsive. His way of thinking was very simple. He only wanted to get back at Cane and would do anything to make it happen, especially now he was the king. He could use his power to fulfill his dream of defiling his mate.

He had learned that Cane favored Iris so much and would take her everywhere he went with a lot of layers of protection, but what he failed to learn was how to execute his plan. He was very immature and was not a good strategist to say the least. No wonder, his attempt failed miserably.

But, once Zeke learned about it, his grandfather was livid beyond words. He wanted to make Cane lower his guard, making him think that he and Cyan backed off completely, especially after the war for the throne with the Red Claw pack.

Yet, what Alan did would put the alpha on high alert and it didn't go well with his plan.

"A dog is smarter than you!" Zeke spat to Alan's face, as he still curled himself on the floor. "You are so shameful! Useless bastard! You should be lucky to be able to play king with that stupid brain of yours! It is so embarrassing my daughter's blood runs in your veins! Idiot!"

Corry lowered his head, he was afraid, he had warned Alan to consult this with Zeke or at least with Dexter first if he was going to do something against Cane, as Zeke's instruction was very clear that they had to stay away from Cane and his pack for the meantime.

Yet, Alan simply didn't want to listen, thinking he was the king and he could give an order to kill whoever he liked. He thought, his grandfather and mother would praise him if he managed to kill Cane, since he knew how the alpha had caused his mother to be blind, though he didn't have any idea with the details of it.

"Father, I think you need to see her now," Dexter said, once his father stopped with his vile words. "Aria is about to give birth, but she has difficulty."

Zeke threw a nasty look at his grandson before he commanded him to get up and follow him.

"I think we need a help from a midwife. Aria has been in pain since this morning. Cyan made some concoction, but it didn't help." The first contraction happened this morning, but it lasted until midnight and by this time, Aria had lost a lot of energy. Dexter had been giving her his blood to keep her awake.

"Cut her stomach if she still can't deliver the baby," Zeke said coldly.

"Lu, I can't do it with you..." Iris said, she tried to put a distance between her and this lycan, who took over Cane's body again.

"Whyyyyy?" Lu wailed in disappointment. "Do you think what I am going to do with you is not good enough? I will let you to be on top of me, if you want!" ( 1

Iris really wanted to cry! She didn't know whether she should be embarrassed by his bluntness, or she should be angry because of how careless he spoke about them being intimidated.

This lycan was the epitome of her frustration, but Iris tried to be gentle and patient with him, knowing he didn't mean anything bad. "It's still in the middle of the night and I am so tired, I don't think I can last for long... tomorrow we need to leave to Diadem pack."

"We can leave next week, you don't want to leave this pack, so we don't need to leave." Lu's red eyes lit up when he thought, he found a good bargain to make Iris had a sex with him. "We will do everything you want! We can have a lot of sex! Day and night! It will be fun!"

Lu was talking about having sex with Iris, as if they were going to stroll in a garden. Day and night?! Did he plan to kill her?

Yes, Iris didn't want to leave this pack and try to figure out how to help these people, but she understood Cane's point of view and he had warned her there would be a lot of inconvenient situations like this in the future, where she had to stop using her heart and focused on the long term result.

"Lu... I am tired." Iris turned him down gently. She knew, Lu wouldn't go against her wishes, or forced himself without her consent, thus she didn't feel afraid with him, but more frustrated with the situation.

Lu pouted. "You told me to take off my clothes and now I am naked for nothing? I better vent out my anger to those useless warriors out there. I am going to bath in their blood." 1

Iris immediately held his arm, afraid he was going outside and did what he said. "No killing, okay?"

Lu growled, he narrowed his eyes. "Are you going to make me promise that crap again?"

A realization dawned on Iris when she knew what Lu meant with that. He referred to the time when the first Serafim made him promise not to kill anyone, which resulted in his death.

"Unless they attack you first and you are in danger," Iris added, corrected herself.

"So, if I hit their head and they attack me, I can kill them?" 1

"Lu!"

What kind of logic was that?!

Lu sighed in annoyance and Iris really wanted to tell him it should be her, who was annoyed.

"I can't get it down," Lu said, as he lowered his head and stared at his penis, which got so hard. Iris followed his line of sight and wanted to facepalm herself. What now? "It's so painful, can't get it down."

"Why are you being excited for?!" Iris shrieked.

"I am always excited whenever I am with you, my lovely moon," Lu replied innocently, but there was nothing innocent about this cunning lycan. "Can't you help me with this? It is very uncomfortable..." he whined.

Iris helped Cane before with this, she knew what to do without doing the deed, but she still felt so wrong to do it when it was Lu, who took over Cane's body and it was not really her mate.

"Why he doesn't fix this?" Lu stared at the ugly scar on his phallus. "Can't you do something with your little light? Maybe it can help? You can fix that young boy's legs."

It never crossed Iris's mind. But...."Yes, I help to purify the traces of blackmagic, while in your case, it happened not because of dark magic..."

"Try, give it a try first. Come, touch it!" Lu directed her hand to his phallus and Iris freaked out. 1

"Wait, wait!" She immediately took a stepback and Lu looked so disappointed.

"This is uncomfortable..." Lu whined again.

"Get on the water, okay, I will bath you and put you on warm clothes, you will be fine."

Grumbling and groaning, Lu got into the bathup and dipped himself in the warm water, he sat there uncomfortably.

Meanwhile, after calming herself down, Iris approached him and knelt down beside the bathup to give him a quick bath, while Lu would nudge her neck with his nose and played with her hair.

"This is uncomfortable... I feel like I am going to die..."

"It can't get down..."

"I am dying..." Iris felt so bad, especially when it was Cane's face, who looked so miserable, while begging her. In the end, she touched him...

It was only a light caress in the beginning, which made the lycan moaned, it was Cane's voice and Iris loved to hear it.

But then, Iris stopped.

"Lu, tell me about Rei..." Iris whispered to his ear.

Next Chapter
Previous