

Chapter 723

723 BLINDING LIGHT

Lou gritted his teeth. He couldn't bear to see how miserable Iris was. The fuck with secret, he was going to create a portal and send her to a safe place if he had a chance to do so!

But the problem was; he didn't have magic stone with him!

Thus, when he heard the Serafim's offer, he hesitated a bit before he agreed. The curse in his head was getting loud the moment he agreed to reveal himself as a sorcerer, especially in front of the Serafim. He didn't like people to see this side of him.

Yet, Iris's pale face and how she was having a hard time to breath and was in so much pain drove him crazy. He might regret his decision later when the situation had calmed enough.

But right now, this was the only thing he could do to save them from this hellish nightmare.

"Fine, do it! Call that thing!" Lou said, his words came out harsher than he intended and Liam gave him a nasty look for the way he talked to the Serafim, but the merchant couldn't care less about that.

The thing about portal was; not all the magic user could create portal. If you were not born with the ability, no matter how hard you tried to learn, you wouldn't be able to create one.

That was why when Abby overheard what Aliana talked to Lou, she immediately came up with this idea.

"I will summon the Sylph, but I don't think I can hold on for long, so I need everyone to move fast." Abby stared at the scared children, who had been crying out of fear. "Do you have a safe place to go?"

Lou glanced at Iris when Abby said she couldn't hold the Sylph for long. "Howling Wolf pack," he blurted out and Aliana agreed with him. Their pack was so far from all of this battle and it was indeed the right option for them to take.

"Okay." Abby nodded, she closed her eyes and tried to concentrate to summon the air spirit once again, but she failed in the first attempt, on the second attempt, she was almost there, but it was obvious she was having a hard time.

"Abby..." Liam wanted to tell her to stop forcing herself, but a single glare from her was enough to make him backed off.

He knew what she felt. Abby had wanted to prove herself over and over again because she was well aware how weak her divine power was. None of them could understand how hard she had trained herself only to meet with their disappointed eyes.

"Argh!" Abby growled, she was angry with herself because she failed for the third time, especially when Lou criticized her.

"Are you sure you can do it?" Lou frowned, the looked of disappointment in his eyes, which was something that Abby hated the most.

On the other hand, Iris felt very weird with her body, it felt like she was floating, she felt so light, as if she weighed nothing. The mess of commotion faded away on the back of her mind when she tried to focus on the pain on her stomach. She prayed there was nothing happened to her babies, but that was the time when her mind went blank.

She was sure she didn't pass out, but it almost felt like her body didn't belong to her anymore and when she moved, she did it like she was half dreaming, like she was drunk, but she was still aware of her surroundings.

This was a weird feeling.

Iris stood up and raised both of her hands, as bright warm light appeared from her palms and this caught everyone's attention, especially when the Sylph appeared before her eyes. The Sylph appeared so big, almost as big as the Nefilim.

"What is happening here...?" Della muttered under her breath, she had seen the Sylph before when she gave birth to her daughter, but because she was in distressful situation, she didn't have time to think of anything and only focused on her baby and how to survive the delivery.

"Is that air spirit?" Eron had shifted into his human form, so did Dyne.

"I thought only the Serafim, who could call the water spirit?" Dyne chimed in.

Lou and Aliana said nothing, while the latter paid close attention to the luna, the former glanced at the Serafim. Lou could see the look of surprised on her face and this solidified his suspicion that she also didn't know why Iris could summon the Sylph.

However, when Lou shifted his attention toward Iris, he noticed something. The look on her eyes. She didn't seem to be aware of what she was doing. She looked like she was daydreaming instead.

Behind Abby, Liam gritted his teeth. He didn't understand why the same thing happened again and why this luna could summon the air spirit. This didn't make any sense. He glanced at Abby and the Serafim looked like she was going to cry and have an outburst. This was a humiliation for her.

"Lou! Do it!" Aliana snapped.

They were amazed by what Iris could do, until they forgot their main reason of why they summoned the water spirit at the first place, the battle behind them was also forgotten for a moment.

"Oh, right!" Lou shook his head and tried to concentrate. He could feel this divine power from the Sylph and this was the first time for Lou to use divine power for his magic and the feeling was mystifying.

He created the portal easily and more precisely.

It was Eron, who came first into the portal, followed by the children, Tatiana, Amara and their brother. Aliana decided to stay with Iris and Dyne came with the children, so did Della, Aderan and their newborn baby, all of them stepped into the portal.

"Do you want to come too?" Lou asked the Serafim, he looked at Abby and Liam back and forth. If they were going to be this weak and couldn't do anything to help, it would be better if they stayed away from here. It would help in that way.

More so, Lou didn't like the look on the Serafim's face when she gawked at Iris.

"I am going to stay," Abby said.

Lou glanced at Aliana and she didn't move from where she was standing, so Lou assumed that was all.

Meanwhile, the other pack member, who managed to runaway from the attack approached them when they saw the Sylph, assuming this was the Serafim, who had created the portal for them to escape, so they rushed into the portal too.

People flocked in this area and Lou created another portal to send them all to the Howling Wolf pack.

Everyone would be surprised to see there were so many people appeared out of nowhere, but there would be Eron, Dyne and Aderan, who would explain the situation.

Lou closed the portal when the last person had stepped in.

"So, what are you going to do now with those Nefilims?" Lou asked Iris, but for some reason, he felt a little bit circumspect in his way to talk with her, as if there was something inside of him that prevented him from acting so recklessly with her like usual.

Iris didn't answer Lou, instead she walked toward those Nefilim and this made Aliana freaked out.

"No, no! Don't get closer! You will get hurt!" Aliana tried to stop Iris, but she couldn't even touch her, as if there was this protection that surrounded her body, as if there was this transparent glass that shrouded the luna, preventing any disturbs from outside.

Lou pulled Aliana back and shook his head, indicating for her to wait and see what Iris was going to do.

"She looks possessed," Lou commented.

He was right in this matter, Iris looked like she was not herself when she approached the battlefield. Some of the warriors shifted into their human form and told Iris to back off, they looked at Aliana and tell her to take the luna away from there because this place was very dangerous.

However, Aliana shook her head. "I can't get close to her, you can try."

She was right, none of them could get close to Iris. They couldn't touch her.

At the same time, two Nefilims managed to break the line that the knights and warriors created, the two giants rushed toward where Iris was standing, in which the air spirit stood in front of her, to shield her.

But, from what Lou knew, Sylph was not an offensive spirit, they were a defensive spirit, they were protector.

From afar, they could see black beast rushed toward them. It was the alpha, it was easy to recognize him among the other beast, since his beast was bigger and faster than the other.

When the two Nefilims were about to attack the Sylph, in extent was Iris. The black beast lunged forward and shifted into his lycan form, as black wisp appeared like thousand of spears in the air and at the same time, a blinding white light burst from the Sylph, blinding their sights.

It was a chaotic situation, where everyone couldn't see and the prolonged dark sky turned bright, as if the sun finally shone again.

Being in the dark for long, they were forced to close their eyes and couldn't see what actually was going on and the only thing they could do was hearing a loud rumbling sound from beneath them, as the ground was shaking violently.
