

39. No Escape

A few days

Evelyn stared outside the window, in just few weeks her graduation day was coming. She dreamed of getting graduate, she thought that it would be the best day of her life but now she was scared really scared.

After that horrible day Evelyn was so afraid of the storms that just by hearing their names her eyes used to get teary.

Henry got discharged from hospital just few days ago. He didn't regret what he did, he just wanted his daughter to be safe.

The only thing he was sad about, that Evelyn was stuck with them and there wasn't any hope left. His blood boiled when the brothers said that they'll marry Evelyn after one week of her graduation, she looked devastated after hearing that.

On the other hand the trio literally were on cloud nine, Evelyn was behaving nicely with them or more like her mind was clouded by fear so much that she was too scared to fight them.

The storms were busy in wedding preparations due to which they weren't able to see Evelyn that much which she was really glad about. The trio wanted to make this a perfect wedding for their babygirl.

Evelyn was way too embarrassed to face them after what they did with her, she felt disgusted with herself the way her body reacted. She was unaware of all those sexual needs.

She sighed and went towards her closet. Last night they called and said that they were going to select the wedding invitation card, Evelyn knew very well that the storms could call the people at her house for that but they did that knowingly so she has to go out with them.

Evelyn

I wore my clothes and after that brushed my hair, I applied some lip gloss and wore my sandals.

My phone dinged. It was Noah's message saying that they were about to reach my house which made me bite my lip in nervousness.

There was this immense fear inside my heart that I couldn't even explain. The horrible things they did with me, after that for some days whenever I saw any smaller object I used to get scared thinking it was a spider. The marks on my body were gone and that 'S' mark was also healing.

I almost lost dad, seeing him on that hospital bed made me cry my eyes out. There was no escape from the storms, I accepted my defeat. Call me weak, coward but I would never ever going to risk my dad's life again and how they tortured me, it still gave me chills thinking about that day.

"No no focus" I whispered to myself, I don't want to think about it again or else I'm definitely going to have a panic attack.

I picked up my sling bag and walked downstairs, dad just took his medicines and he was sleeping so I decided not to disturb him. The doctors said that he'll be completely fine in some days, everytime I think about what those brothers did with my dad I burn with rage.

Evelyn calmed herself down, she walked towards the front and opened it but suddenly jumped in fear when she saw these three huge figures already standing there.

The storms chuckled when Evelyn got scared of them. Their gazes fell on her body, they shamelessly checked her out from head to toe.

Evelyn squirmed under their intense gazes. Elijah stepped forward and snaked his arms around her waist "you look so fucking gorgeous puppy" he whispered in her ear, Evelyn gulped in fear.

She looked up at him and smiled "thank you" she said politely.

Elijah smiled and slammed his lips on hers, Evelyn shut her eyes tightly to stop herself from crying, she placed her arms around his neck and kissed him back making him groan in pleasure.

Ace and Noah got behind her and kissed her shoulders. Elijah tried to enter his tongue inside but Evelyn hurriedly pulled away from the trio.

They growled and looked at her maniacally "someone will see" she said shyly and looked away, their anger faded away. Evelyn was cringing on her own behavior but she had to say something so they could just stop kissing her.

On the other hand the trio found it really adorable.

"Let's go" said Ace and held her hand while Elijah and Noah stood beside her.

They took her towards the car where Chase, Samuel and Jack were waiting for them. Noah opened the door for her and she sat inside.

The brothers also settled inside and suddenly Noah pulled Evelyn on his lap making her shriek. They chuckled, she didn't fight and sat quietly.

Noah placed her head on his chest, he ran his hand on her silky hair. Ace placed his hands over her waist and held it in a firm grip. Elijah intertwined his fingers with hers.

Evelyn felt suffocated in their possessive holds. She mentally sighed, her mind wondered around the things she wanted to do after her graduation. She wanted to go to college but now it was all over, all her dreams were shattered.

Evelyn didn't realize when tears started to fall from her eyes.

Noah felt something wet on his shirt, he looked down and saw Evelyn's eyes closed and tears flowing down.

"Baby what happened" he asked worriedly, this got Elijah and Ace's attention. They saw her tear-stained face and got worried too.

"Kitten why are you crying" he asked wiping her small face. Evelyn shake her head "nothing" her voice broke. "Babygirl please tell us" Elijah almost begged.

Yes they were really cruel people, yes they tortured her but they couldn't deny the fact that Evelyn was their biggest and only weakness, seeing her like that they felt hurt.

Noah cupped her face "tell us" he said sternly yet his voice was soft. Evelyn blinked "I don't want to get married" she stopped mid-sentence when she saw the trio's eyes darkened and their gentle holds getting tight.

Evelyn knew this won't end well, she had to give a valid excuse. "I mean I want to study further, I want to go to college and how can I marry all of you - it's not possible" she said stuttering while looking down.

Evelyn hesitantly looked up she expected to see the angry look on their faces but to her surprise and horror they were smirking, an evil smirk which almost made her shiver in fear.

The trio stared at her and slowly they scooted even closer to her if that was possible "babygirl no one is going to get in between our marriage, and if someone dared to, you think they'll be able to live" Elijah said with a smirk. Evelyn felt she was going to get sick.

"And who said that you won't be able to go to college after marriage" Ace said, this got Evelyn's attention she looked at him in shock "you mean I-" "yes love" Noah said with a smile "though we don't want you around any boys but if going to college makes you happy then we're ready for it" Noah said.

Evelyn couldn't believe her ears, she was happy but sad also.

She was happy that they were going to let her go to college but she was sad that all her excuses to stop this marriage went in vain. "Now no more crying" said Ace sternly wiping her tears and she nodded.

"We're here" said Noah as the car stopped. Another two cars in which their guards were sitting stopped beside their car. Behind the door for the storms, Ace stepped out with Noah Jack and then Elijah who held his hand for Evelyn to take.

She took his hand and they started to walk towards a huge showroom. Chase, Samuel and Jack surrounded them as the storms entered inside with Evelyn between them.

She looked around, it was beautiful.

All the staff members and the owner of the showroom were standing together to welcome the storms.

"Welcome sir, it's an honor to have you here" said a middle-aged man who was the owner.

The trio shake hands with them. The staff members were staring at them in awe. Men were ogling at Evelyn's beautiful body while women were biting their lips looking at the storms' handsome faces and tatted bodies.

Evelyn felt their intense gazes, she started to get uncomfortable. The trio noticed it, they looked at the staff with clenched jaws which made them cower in fear.

The owner saw this and quickly dismissed his staff. He turned towards Evelyn "hello Mrs. Storm, I'm garred" he said. Evelyn's eyes widened.

MRS. STORM?? WHAT THE FUDGE!

Storms smiled widely, they liked it...no they loved it. Evelyn smiled uncomfortably "hello, please call me Evelyn" she said politely. That guy named Garred smiled in return.

They entered inside a room, it was pretty huge. It looked like a VIP room. "Please have a seat" Garred said, the trio sat on the couch with Evelyn in between Ace and Noah.

Garred pulled out his phone "yes get the designs" he said on the call and hung up. "We've got the best wedding cards Mr. Storm" he said and the brothers nodded.

Two men entered inside with some stacks and they gently placed them on the table. "Please have a look" said Garred and stepped aside to give them privacy.

"Come on kitten, you decide" said Ace turning towards Evelyn, she looked at him and gulped "m-me" she said "of course babygirl" said Noah. Evelyn hesitantly nodded and then ran her gaze over the sample cards.

Beautiful was the only word that came into her mind after seeing them, there were different designs and patterns.

Suddenly a tinge of sadness rushed inside her, Evelyn never thought about her marriage that much, after all she was just a teenager but now here she was selecting her wedding card.

She knew nobody will dare to raise a question about this marriage, because of the fear of storms. And she didn't blame them, she herself was scared of them. There was no escape.
