

The Vampire Omega by Angelic Chapter 61

/ The Vampire Omega by Angelic

It was going to be hard to find the particular observatory she was, definitely going to be hard, there was only one way of finding her which was using his powers, he was already weak to the core, but he had no other option.

Quickly he closed his eyes, all he needed was to focus and get the sound of her breathing, and that was what he did, when he closed his eyes, he concentrated, just then he heard a noise, a slow melodic sound which turned out to be the sound of a heart beat.

The light quick sound of the heart beat kept banging in his head, the sound was coming from an observatory, the observatory wasn't far from where he stood.

"Blade!"

He heard a tiny voice whispered into his head and quickly without thinking twice, he opened his eyes, quickly turning left, there was an observatory facing him, the observatory was the weakest building among the rest of the buildings.

Quickly using his vampire's strength, he ran into the building, each corner of the building was filled with darkness, the building smelt horrible.

(I left some tracks from the black market, I need back up.)

Blade said, the last thing he wanted was for anything to happen to his mate, he needed her to be safe and unharmed.

"Help me!"

He heard a voice whispered, the voice was so weak and familiar.

Quickly running to the direction of the voice, the observatory was an open space, it wasn't hard to locate the owner of the voice.

He froze when he saw his mate lying on the ground, her body drenched with blood, her legs and hands tied and her lips gagged.

Blade's eyes darkened more with anger, a heavy growl escaped from her lips, they had harmed his mates, they had touched the Lion's tail and now who so ever had done this to his mate will greatly suffer for what they did.

"Blade help! Please help!"

Bella screamed, the conned woman had stopped torturing her when they heard some noise coming from the other end of the building and quickly they have escaped probably from the building.

“Mon amour!”

Bella heard a voice whispered to her, she stopped speaking, she had hoped for the king to appear instantly and save her from this deadly room and here he was, standing so close to her.

“Mon amour, am here.”

Blade whispered, his hands gently clutched her wrist, gently untying the rope that was used to tie her hands and then followed by the ropes used to bound her legs, he removed the seal used in covering her lips and gently he untied the bound used in covering her eyes.

“Am here, am here to save you.”

Blade said, still assuring her, Bella smiled triumphantly, she had bruises all over her body but that never mattered, what mattered was that she was saved.

Blade hugged her quickly, hugging her softly tightly as if she would disappear the next minute.

“Am sorry for not saving you, am really sorry for coming late.”

Blade whispered, still hugging her, tightly but gently, Bella wrapped her hands around him, she felt at ease now he was here with her.

Remembering the words of the conned woman, the mysterious woman has promised to inform the king about her past but she wasn't going to allow that happen.

“You need to know something about me King Blade.”

Bella said, staring at the Blade weakly, but Blade was not in the position to hear that, all he wanted was to take her away from there and take her to a safer place, to his room where she will be under his watch all the time.

“You can tell me what so ever you wanna tell me when I finally take you away from here, you look so bruised and wounded.”

Blade said, staring at her, Bella gave a low sigh, she hoped the conned woman never told or expose her past to him before she wakes up.

Perhaps, the moon goddess has blessed her with the vampire king, to help her get her revenge against her former pack, they had exposed their brutality towards her in a cunning manner, well then, with the help of the vampire king her mate, she will have to deal with her pack, specifically the man who had caused her so much pain, Lucas.

“Ok fine, but please do not listen or read what so ever that concerns me, I prefer telling you myself.”

Bella said, waiting to hear a word from him.

“Yes I heard you, I won’t ”

Blade said, not understanding a single word she was saying.

Quickly she passed out, Blade stared at her for a while, the door opened quickly revealing the king’s men.

Carson stood far away from the king, he knew the king was still angry over what happened, he could not protect the future queen and perhaps he might be punished for inflicting the king harm in an indirect way. Even the king’s mother would not be spared

His negligence had caused the king’s mate harm.

“Search every perimeter of this building and also other buildings. I need evidence or any thing that can track my attacker or know who so ever was my attacker. I need to find who dared layed their disgusting hand on my mate.”

Blade said, gently he carried his mate on his hands in bridal style and with the last strength in him, he teleported out from the room.

He teleported to his room, this was the first time he was allowing a woman into this room, but this was not just a woman, this was his woman, the woman he held was his mate.

Slowly he dropped her on the huge bed, he sat down beside her, slowly he removed the clothes from her body, only leaving her lace underwears.

Her body was smeared with blood and purple deep injuries, he felt his blood boil at every sight of her injuries. He could not believe anyone would dared to harm his mate.

Well now he knew he had enemies, he was going to make sure she remains beside him all the time till he resolved his issues with his enemies and if she refuses, he will have to tie her on the bed and punish her in a manner only both of them could understand.

(Come over to the pack, my mate have been badly injured!)

Blade said, still staring at his mate.

(I will be only way vampire king)

The doctor said. Blade closed the mindlink, quickly he rushed to the bathroom, picking a white towel, he dipped it into a basin of warm water.

He walked towards the bed where his mate lay, he sat down beside her, the bed dipping under his weight.

He massaged her body with the towel and warm water, cleaning up the injuries and dirt.

As he cleaned her up, he smiled gently, his mate had changed him in a positive way, she had broken through his walls the first time he laid his eyes on her and he made him changed from been a beast to been a savior. Her super hero.

The Vampire Omega by Angelic Chapter 62

/ The Vampire Omega by Angelic

A knock came resounding on the door, Blade perceiving the scent of the doctor, quickly covered his mate up, no one had the right to see his mate body without her permission except him.

He wouldn't dared anyone see his mate's body.

"The door is opened."

Blade said, the door opened, revealing an old man with grey hair.

"Vampire king, what happened to her."

Doctor Roberts said, Blade shrugged his shoulders, yet not taking one feet away from where he sat beside his mate.

"She got attacked by my enemies, she have been terribly wounded and I don't know how long it will take before she gets properly healed."

Blade said, he knew not to call Isabella to treat him mate, he could not call that bitch for anything which relates to the welfare of his mate.

"Ok."

The doctor said, not asking any further questions, he knew asking questions might cost him to loose his head, the king was not the type for formalities and questioning and it was quite surprising to him and all the entire pack that he would be so kind and over protective and possessive towards his mate.

"But vampire king, you will need to give me some space, where you sit is where I c..... Forget about it....."

The doctor panicked, the king was scaring him already. He noticed how the king's eyes turned a more darker than before, he did not need a soothsayer to inform him that the king might have his head detached if he kept talking.

"Umm I will have to check her temperature."

The doctor said, looking at the king in anticipation, any wrong step with the king's mate could cause him his life and he wasn't ready to lose one, he had children and younger grand pups.

Blade nodded his head, not even looking towards his direction.

Blade could feel the doctor's fear oozed out from his body.

Quickly the doctor checked her temperature, he panicked at what he saw.

Blade observing the doctor's expression and without been told he knew something was wrong.

"What is the issue with my mate. Speak now."

Blade ordered the doctor, who quickly turned his gaze towards him.

"The future queen looks so pale and there is a low risk she might survive. She might have been beaten to stupor and maybe told some negative things which might have affected her in a negative way. Her brain had been severely damaged to face reality and she needs a stronger system for her to survive."

The doctor said, staring at Blade, Blade looked shocked at what he heard, he found it unable to breathe for a while and slowly he took a deep breath.

His mate was not going to leave him, not now that their bond was growing.

"So what should be done?"

Blade asked, staring at the doctor.

"We need to take a single dose of your blood and inject into her system. There are slim chances that she will survive if the blood is given to her while there are huge chances that she won't survive if nothing is done. If she had a stronger blood, she will survive the new blood, that is, her blood will accept a vampire blood."

The doctor said, staring at the king, this was the only option for the king's mate you survive.

"If my mate takes my blood, it will turn her to a vampire, she will be a turned vampire and she will be taking bloods."

Blade said, things were happening so fast. Just in a single day he was about to lose his mate, he had never been torned in such a manner as now.

"Yes she will be turned into a vampire if only it works, if nothing is done, am sorry to say this but she will die."

The doctor said, now he could see the love the king had for his mate, his eyes, his reaction to the news said it all.

"But you need a stronger blood, if your patient, my mate have a stronger blood, then she can survive right?"

Blade asked, staring at the doctor, for the first time, he was totally scared.

"Yes it is, she needs to have a strong blood."

The doctor said, Blade stood up quickly, he dropped his head on a wall, this was the time to think, now the life of his mate depended on his hands, his decision could kill or save his mate.

There was a problem, his mate was an omega, she cannot survive a single drop of a vampire blood in her, she might die if his blood entered her system but if he never tries anything, she will die totally, that was for sure.

There was only one thing to do, take the risk and give her his blood, the goddess would not give him a weak blooded mate, Bella wasn't weak, she been a omega never said she was weak, if she had been weak before stepping into his territory, then when he claimed her as his, she became instantly like him, he became part of him.

"Do it doctor Roberts, take my blood and give it to her, she will survive."

Blade said, boldly walking towards the doctor.

The doctor hesitated for a moment.

"Are you sure, are you sure of this vampire king?"

The doctor asked, atil staring at the king.

"I don't like repeating my words unless you have a problem with your ears. Do you have a problem with you ears?"

Blade asked, staring at him intimidating the doctor, who quickly waved his head.

"No vampire king, no am perfectly hearing you well."

The doctor said, bringing out a syringe, he drew out the king's blood and quickly, he cleaned the king's mate arms, giving a light breath, he injected the king's blood into Bella's system.

He wiped off the stains of blood and arranged the little injury the wound caused.

When he was done, he stood up, taking his resources, he stared at the king.

"Am done."

The doctor said, watching as the king looked so lost as he stared at his mate, he wondered what was going through the king's mind.

"When will she be awake?"

Blade asked, still watching his mate as she breathed out slowly from her deep sleep.

"She should be awake in three to four days, she will start having the traits of a vampire which might be in the first early hours from when she awakes."

The doctor said, staring at her.

"Ok you can leave."

Blade said, hearing the door closed behind him, he walked to sit down beside his mate, she looked pale and white, he missed her stubborn look and smiley face and drunkard looks and angry looks, he missed her usual self and he hoped she wakes up in three to four days.

If not, he would go insane and destroy any one that crosses his path.

The Vampire Omega by Angelic Chapter 63

/ The Vampire Omega by Angelic

It had been six days, so awful days, six intense days since he last heard her voice, he had last gazed into those beautiful eyes of hers, he could not believe how slow and dull things were beginning to change in his eyes.

He stared into her closed eyes, he wished she could just open her eyes even though maybe for once and then close them quickly, to give him hope.

He had called the doctor since her awakening day had elapsed and the doctor had confirmed she was still alive which made him breathe slightly for a while, but he was worried, worried at the fact that she has not awoken.

Carson have been assisting Kurt, who is taking care of the pack and company, he had left him to tender to the business and then ordered for no one to disturb him ever since his mate had received his blood and had showed no sign of waking up.

He had not left the room for the past six days, these last six days has taught him something strange, something he never knew he would have ever done before.

He learned how to be gentle, he learned how to be patience, he learned how o whisper sweet words into the ears of his mate knowing the fact she could not hear him.

As foolish as that may sound but this little insane moments he spent with her drew him closer to his mate and made him understood some secrets parts of his mate he could not discover.

His mother has been struck with a light fever after the incident that happened in the black market.

She had kept blaming her self for causing his mate harm and this must have caused her to be sick.

He had withdrew the punishment he was going to inmate upon her as for now.

But he never gave her the permission to visit his mate, he wouldn't allow his mother coming close to his mate, he was still mad at her.

Lightly he touched the hair that fell on the face of his mate and gently he removed them, touching her cheeks slightly, she was bedridden yet she looked yummy, he waved his head, waving off the thoughts that was beginning to overcloud his head.

A knock came, disrupting his thoughts for a moment.

He gave a light sigh, no one had seen him for almost a week, he had only been drinking the blood tea that had been stored In the refrigerator.

Slowly he stood up from the bed, walking towards the doors of his chambers.

"What do you need?"

He asked, he knew who was there, their heartbeat and scent made him recognize the presence that was standing on the door.

"It is I your brother, I am quite worried about you, you haven't left your room for the past few days and the whole pack is worried about, you need to speak your the other vampire lords, your attention is needed....."

"My mate needs me more than ever, now I do not want to be disturbed."

Blade said, interrupting his brother's speech.

"I am not interrupting you. I am worried too, am worried of her too. But the pack, they won't understand you, not everyone knows you have a mate, some still believe it is a rumored news, so they will take it that you abandoned your pack."

Kurt said, standing over the closed door.

Blade closed his eyes tightly, he did not know whom to trust to be with his mate.

They have not find the one who tried to kill his mate, so right now, he could not trust anyone to stay close to his mate until he is back.

"Who will take care of her when I leave here for a while."

Blade said, still hearing the heart beat of his brother through the door.

"I can, am like a big brother to her, also I love her, so allow me take care of her, please brother trust me, just this once."

Kurt said, hoping his brother accept his pleas.

Blade considered what he said, he was only going allow the brother in and no one else and if anything happened to his mate, the goddess would not allow her die, but if anything happened to her, he will hold Kurt responsible and kill him without thinking.

"Ok fine, I will head to the council and speak with them, if anything happens to my mate, I won't remember you are my brother any more, got that?"

Blade said, he was serious with his words.

"Yes brother, please now, go speak with the council, I will protect my Luna with all of my heart and mind and soul and bo....."

The door came banging on Kurt face, Kurt palmed his face on the ground.

A loud hiss escaped from his lips.

"You wouldn't have done that brother."

Kurt said, standing up weakly.

"Then stop swearing when it concerns my mate."

Blade hissed, glaring at him with fire in his eyes.

“Ok but I wasn’t done, I love your mate too, I hope she wakes up under my watch, I would love to show you how intense our relationship I.....”

“Now leave, I do not need your help anymore.”

Blade said, glaring at him as he pointed the way out from his room.

“Don’t mind me, am joking, go take care of council meetings.”

Kurt said, smiling mischievously at him.

Blade hissed lightly, he was not in the mood for jokes and his brother was trying to make him bury him alive.

“And also you need to shave.”

His brother said, quickly slamming the door on Blade’s face.

Blade heaved slowly, staring at the closed door once more, he walked out from the hall.

He could not wait for his mate to wake up from her deep slumber so he would inform her about the recent invitation he had received, he wanted to see her reaction towards the letter and also he could not wait to see the pack she came from.

The Vampire Omega by Angelic Chapter 64

/ The Vampire Omega by Angelic

When he reached the council hall, the council elders were waiting for his arrival.

Carson walked towards him, bowing down slowly, he smiled at the king, his smile was genuine, filled with assurance, he understood the phase the king was passing through.

“What is it, why that smile.”

Blade asked, staring at his second in command. He wasn’t fond of receiving smiles unless the one that his mate gave him all the time, gawd, how he missed her smile.

Quickly he waved his head, he was thinking about her again.

“Just a welcoming gesture my lord, may I present you to the council.”

Carson said, leading the king to his position, while the elders of the council stood up and bowed down to him.

"I am already in the council. Seems you don't know how we work again, my lack of presence must have affect your memory."

Blade said, glaring at him for a while, every fucking thing pissed him off, he wasn't ready to play games with anyone.

"All hail king Blade, we have heard of your sudden dismissal in the things that concerns the pack and your company, you gave your brother the power to lead the whole packs and we are quite worried about that. Perhaps is there a problem."

One of the council men said, still bowing down, obviously scared of staring at the king.

Among the members of the council who were present in the council meeting was Aloric, the great grand elder, father of Ashrak, the King's whore. Aloric bowed his head lowly, the heavy shame that was inated upon his daughter still gripped him and his taste for revenge was increasing day by day.

"What so ever that concerns my company, my personal business and the outside world should not be your concern. You should be focused more on what happens in the within the pack world and every other vampire's pack. As you all may know, I gave my brother Kurt the permission to lead the entire pack for some days before I regain my strength."

Blade said, there was no way he would inform them about his mate been bedridden for days.

"Do you mean you are sick?"

One of the elders asked.

"Yes I am and I am apologizing for not informing the council about it."

Blade said, Slowly his eyes diverted towards the old council member Aloric, he gazed at the man for a while, there and then he wondered if perhaps this man was the anonymous man who has tried killing his mate.

A father can never stay still when he was totally disgrace by punishing his daughter in front of all the members of the pack be still and do nothing.

Aloric saw the king staring at him intensely, he bow down low, the king had a way of intimidating a person in a way more than one expected.

"What about your mate. A lot have not been heard about her, no one have seen her within this past six days. We the council are quite worried about your mate."

Blade heard a vampire said, slowly his eyes diverted towards the vampire who had spoken, it was Markus, the leader of the Bloody Night pack, he had given Markus the power to rule over the Pack when the werewolves once had a war with the vampires and Markus father caught killed by the werewolves, that was the same day he lost his own father too, the previous king and lord of the whole vampire's realm.

"Should I be worried about your concern for my mate Lord Marcus. Because I feel quite worried right now."

Blade said, an evil glint appearing in his eyes as he stared at the little vampire.

"No No, just feeling concerned for your mate, after all she will be the new Lu....."

With a speed, as fast as lightening, Blade rammed his fist towards the vampire, sending Markus flying on the wall.

Everyone breathed out heavily with fear, they knew not to provoke the king, in short, not all vampire Lords loves attending council meeting, there was always bloodshed at the end, so everyone minded the way they talk to the king, the king was no a vampire of patience.

"Now Lord Markus or what do ever you call your self, do not use a sultry tongue to talk about my mate again. I hate men who does that and do you know what I do to men who does that, I kill them or skin them alive, then feed their bodies to the dogs and then hang your head on a stake in a barren land where the rogues stay. Your spirit will die of torment and you will suffer both in the spirit world."

Blade hissed, quickly getting over the vampire who held his breath.

Markus staggered back immediately the king left his presence totally. He wasn't going to speak of the king's mate anymore.

"I heard rumors, rumors that your mate is sick, is that perhaps true, that your mate is sick and lays in her bed totally bed ridden."

Blade heard a voice said, slowly he turned towards who so ever dared questioned him in a time like this.

The whole council remained still, you could hear the sound of a pin if paradvventure a pin fell on the ground.

It was Aloric, it was Aloric who had asked the question.

Blade stared at him, his face was expressionless but what surprised him was that, the old grand elder stood there, unfazed, not minding what will come next.

But there was a rule which could protect the grand elder from his rage, which was, he had no right to harm or torture the grand elder over something as simple as asking a question, the only reason an elder could be punished was if he commits treason or try harming who so ever that governs him which is the Luna and the vampire king with his family. Also, slight punishment such as banishment or removal of title will be given to him if it involves the pack members.

"Where did you hear such rumors from?"

Blade asked him, walking towards the old elder.

"Was that a rumor, I never knew, I thought it was true. A smoke does not come from an empty fire you know king Blade."

Aloric said, Staring at the king eyeball to eyeball.

"Bring facts Aloric, grand elder of the entire pack, do not bring rumors."

Blade said, staring at king.

"Then if you considered my words to be rumors, why don't to show us your mate, let us see for our self if the soon to be Luna is strong enough."

Aloric said, smiling mischievously at the king, a dark glint was pointed on his chin, only the king was able to see it. Blade stared at him for a while, a dark smile appearing on his face, he had gotten answers he was looking for, he just needed to finalize if I was true.

"Why should I provide my mate to you?"

Blade said, not removing his gaze from Aloric who looked unfaded by his murdering stares.

"To know if our soon to be Luna and queen is healthy, after all she will be the new leader of the great vampires pack, we need to know how strong she will be for the task."

Aloric said, turning to stare at the pack council members who looked at him, they nodded their head, they were In support of the grand elder.

Blade waved his head, he was expecting this.

"Ok fine then, I will provide my mate to you in five hours but if she is bedridden as you said she is, then a new Luna would be chosen, but if she I fine, you and the entire pack owe me a favor which will only be asked at my own time."

Blade said, staring at the grand elder, quickly, Blade saw an emotion strike through the grand elder's eyes, the emotion came and left quickly.

"Ok then, it is finalized, in five hours we will see your mate."

Aloric said, Blade walled back to hus throne, staring down on the floor, he whispered,

“Bella where are you, wake up, wake up!”

The Vampire Omega by Angelic Chapter 65

/ The Vampire Omega by Angelic

Blade looked around the members of the council, they looked as if they were waiting for the stipulated time to arrive so that they can quickly terminate their new rival.

The door opened revealing Simone, he was panting as if he had ran a long miles.

“Why are you running as if there are five grenades set to destroy you.”

Blade growled, staring at Simone who rolled his eyes at the king’s words.

Simone strode towards Blade, bending down slowly, he whispered some words into his ears, Blade stared at him, shocked for a while, quickly like a flash, he ran out from the council meeting.

Carson followed after him, wondering what Simone must have told the king for him to panic for a while, the king never panicked untill recently.

Kurt stared at the light blue greenish eyes that was staring right back at him, shocked was an understatement to what he was feeling now, he stood beside the bed, staring at the king’s mate, her eyes was looking all over the room as if she never looked almost dead few minutes ago.

The quick opening of the door shook him out from his shock, he turned to look at Blade, he could see the shock that glazed on his face as he stared at his mate, who stared right back at him, her eyes looked unfaded and the true color of her eyes were beginning to appear slowly, her cheeks which once carried whiteness now had some warmth in it.

She was totally healing so incredibly well and this shocked Kurt to the cure.

Kurt had learned she was an omega of her previous pack and knowing some tiny details about omega, he knew omega were the weakest, but the scene that was displaying right now In his eyes was the opposite of what an omega should be.

“What did you do to her Kurt?”

Blade said, shaking out from his shock as he strode towards his mate who had not removed her eyes from his sight even for once.

"Are you jealous!"

Kurt said, smirking at him, Blade turned towards his brother, he could see the light glint of mischievousness that glazed on his face.

"Jealous, of what?"

Blade said, turning to stare at his mate, he hoped he was not dreaming, his mate looked different, not as he had expected her to look, she did not possess the traits of a vampire, her eyes were of the same color which makes it quite obvious that she was still a werewolf.

Blade stared at her in shock, what was his mate, she was able to survive a vampire's blood and woke up on the sixth day but she never turned to a werewolf, this was insane. He needed to find answers, his mate was not an ordinary werewolf.

"You are jealous because your mate Bella opened her eyes when I touched those slender hands of hers, I was humming a song and boom when I opened my eyes, I saw her staring right back at me, I almost screamed. I was the first person she saw, isn't that wonderful brother."

Kurt said, he knew he was playing with a lion's tail when he said those words, but angering his brother was his talent.

Blade closed his eyes tightly, he just found out his mate had finally awoke but his brother was trying to make things difficult for him and making it quite obvious how he stayed around when his mate woke up.

"And I kind of wondered if the goddess had perhaps made a mistake. Perhaps I should be her mate, you know I woke her up from he....."

"OUT NOW!"

Blade said, abruptly stopping Kurt from speaking any further.

Blade wasn't ready to welcome his mate to a violent turnoff against his brother especially in her presence.

His brother was trying to bring his anger to the brim and totally he was doing that fine.

Bella waved her head, she smiled at the two brothers, one was the funny mischievous brother while the other which was her mate was serious and easy to anger person.

Kurt threw Blade a smile and slowly turning towards Bella, he threw her a kiss not waiting any seconds further, he teleported out from the room.

Blase sighed, finally he was alone with his mate.

Slowly he stood towards her, like a predator who was about to capture his prey.

Bella stared at her mate, a strange feeling bubbled through her, a feeling of excitement and then another, regret and sadness.

“You came back, I thought.....I thought.....”

Blade did not have the mind to speak out, he couldn't say what was in his mind..

To even think that his mate wasn't going to be back was a big heart attack.

“That I wasn't going to be back?”

Bella said, completing his sentence.

Blade stared at her, his dark eyes turning more darker with a sadistic sorrow.

“Yes!”

Blade said and quickly he rammed his body on hers, hugging her softly damn tight as if she was going to vanish into thin air and never returned back to him.

Bella shuddered at his body against hers, the electricity, the spark she was feeling was incredibly mutual, they both felt the same feeling, the same attachment, the same spark, the same current for the other.

Slowly Bella's hands winded back against his broad shoulders, she hugged him back with the same intensity he used in hugging her.

She felt a strange feeling of satisfaction, homely satisfaction flood through her entire body.

“MINE”

She heard him whispered, she shuddered at his words, strangely enough, his words were enough to make her dizzy with unknown needs. His words were enough to make her think in a perverted manner.

She relished the moment, not minding his heavy weight on his body, instead she felt secured.

Then slowly the events of the last few days jugged through her memory.

She waved her head, she wasn't going to be a victim of depression, she had taken her dose of depression, she wasn't going to be depressed on something that had happened to her again, she had fought against her fears and sick emotions and she wasn't going to allow them overshadow the bright future she had.

Then quickly it came like a lightning, the conned woman had threatened to inform the king about her past.

Lightly pushing Blade off her, he watched him stared right into her eyes and for a moment she forgot her predicament.

She got lost into those deep dark eyes of his which was leading her into his heart, his eyes was dark yet it showed her feelings and emotions which she had never felt before.

“Are you alright?”

She heard Blade whispered to her as he held her cheeks lightly with his two hands.

She bit her lips, he was a greek god, his chiseled face makes her forget anything easily, any worry that was previously flooding through her mind.

Slowly again, she bit her lips, her eyes tracing down wards to her mate full pink lips.

Blade watched her, watching every actions she took, how she bit her lips, her actions was inviting him to kiss those lips of hers.

He was blown with surprise when his mate rammed her lips on his, she was taking lead, she was a damn good kisser and she did quite good in it as she sucked every inch of his tongue.

Slowly she left his lips, staring into his eyes, he could see a light blush which was beginning to appear on her face down to her ears. She was like a tomato and she looked edible.

“Am sorry, I haven’t taken a mouth wash for a while now and damn I kissed you.”

Bella whispered, she felt like a whipped tomato, she could not believe she did that.

“Fucked brushing of teeth, I wanna kiss those lips of yours.”

Blade said and without thinking twice, he smashed his lips on hers, kissing her first roughly, his kissed signified everything emotions he felt during this last few days and Bella understood him because she followed the rhythm of his kisses.

He sucked her buds, clamped her tongue and sucked every inch of her lips.

Slowly his kisses became less roughly, they turned from rough to gentle.

They placed their forehead on each other, giving each other the support they needed.

"I love you."

Blade said, Bella looked at him in shock, the great and almighty vampire king was loving an omega like her.

"I love you and I mean it when I say am gonna make you fall for me in twenty one days."

Blade said, his actions already emphasized his words, Bella felt her heart skip, slowly closing her eyes for a while, it was high time she tell him this, she tells him about her past.

"I need to tell you something."

Bella said, taking few steps away from him.

Blade stared at her, wondering what was wrong, he felt his heart sink, she was not happy that he confessed his feelings for her.

"You not happy with my revelation?"

Blade asked, staring at her, Bella stared into his face, she had never seen anyone as broken as he was right there. Right there he looked as if he was passing through some sort of torture.

"No no, I just want you to know me very well."

Bella said, watching as he quickly looked into her eyes, he looked so confused, as if not believing what she was saying.

"Are you serious, you don't owe me an explanation until you are ready. You just woke up from a six days unconsciousness and I do not seem bothered about your past, so please I prefer getting a doctor and someone to take care o....."

"Blade, I wanna say this now, if am not gonna say this, I won't be happy."

Bella said, staring at him.

Blade nodded his head, he wasn't bothered about her not speaking anything but if it was her decision, he doesn't have a problem with that.

"Have you received any reports about me lately, something that had to do with my past?"

Bella asked, staring at him, perhaps he must have received a report about her, but she hoped he hadn't heard any information about her, if not, she will be damned.

The Vampire Omega by Angelic Chapter 66

/ The Vampire Omega by Angelic

Please kindly when you are done reading a chapter(s), your comments kept me going and I will really be grateful to receive more comments. Weather be it awful or good. Thanks and I love you all my readers

Chapter sixty six

"You told me not to read any letter that concerns you, also, I haven't been in office since you have been unconscious, there are stakes of letters waiting for me to handle."

Blade said, staring at her and wondering what she was going on through her mind.

"When I got kidnapped, the kidnapper seems to know alot about me you do not know. The woman...."

"Woman?"

Blade asked, what could a woman possibly be doing with his mate.

"Yep woman, a woman locked me up in the observatory but her voice was conned, she was conned using a conned voice, so I could not recognize who she was."

Bella said, watching the look of shock that settled on his face.

Blade wondered why a woman should be part of this blasphemy.

"The mysterious woman had promised that she would inform everything that happened to me in my previous pack to you, so I had been petrified ever since then. I did not want you to hear it from someone else. I will look like a joke to you."

Bella said, settling had herself well on the bed.

"Is that why you want to tell me now, because the woman threatened your past."

Blade said, staring at her in an unbelievable way.

"No no, when I got kidnapped, I realized that I was a fool for not letting you know about my past, perhaps I would have healed faster."

Bella said.

Blade stared at her, he was happy that she was willingly opening up to him without anyone forcing her to.

"I came from a family who hated me with passion, because I was a omega, a shame to the pack, I was the punch bag of the pack....."

Blade hissed with anger as he folded his fist together as if ready to destroy everyone who dared laid their hands on his precious mate.

"If you keep hissing and growling then I won't be able to speak any further, you are interrupting me, you haven't heard the funniest part yet."

Bella said, giggling at him.

Blade stared at her, she was happy even when she was speaking about her past that almost destroyed her life.

"Am sorry, is just hard to hear that you were once a punching bag, how could you be a punching bag. But that was in the past, I won't allow that happen again."

Blade said, Bella smiled, nodding her head slowly, she knew that was in the past.

"So the only family I had who loved me was my father, the late Beta of the pack, Beta Manchor, he was the best Beta ever but I heard he died on a war, I did not know how he died or who or what killed him but he was the most significant person that died in the war, that was what I was told, but I think every lives were significant."

Her words made Blade to smile, his mate was an angel to his life. A light in his darkness.

"Things were normal in the pack, everything was great in the pack ways, been bullied by the alpha and my sisters and every members of the pack even my own mother, then everything changed in one night."

Bella said, staring at the king, her fist folded together, no matter how hard she tried to forget that events that happened took place that night, they kept rushing so quick into her head, been forced to suck his dick with a gun, she felt a light feeling running up through her throat.

"Breath in, is not must you say it, I promise not to read anything about any letter I was sent during your absence unless you tell me to."

Blade said, watching as she nodded her head slowly.

"I was raped."

Bella blurted out quickly, the look that appeared on his face wasn't just a look, it was expressionless, no single emotion could be found on his face.

But she knew those faces were speaking thousand things to her.

The only way she could find out what he was thinking was by staring into his eyes deeply.

And she she stared into his eyes, she was shocked at what she saw, she saw pain, more pain and the anger, but in the midst of those bubbles, she saw love, a full blown love which was so evident in his eyes.

And quickly like a flash, he ran towards a wall, punching the wall with full force, Bella gasped with shock, was that how he vent his pain, by throwing punch and cracking up walls.

In the next seconds, he was beside her, his two damn knees in the floor, holding her two hands as tenderly as possible. The last thing he could ever thought was his mate been raped by some son of a whore.

"What did they do to you Mon amour."

Blade said, slowly peppering kisses on her hands.

"I was raped in my own pack and no one came to my aid. No one fucking cared about my screams....."

"Who raped you?"

Blade asked, he could not wait to hear who raped her, he could not wait to rip his skin apart and feed it to the fire and watch him burn to ashes and then take his ashes to the most dangerous tunnel of the spirit.

Bella stared at him, she wasn't ready to inform him who did it, who raped her.

"Am not ready, I hope you understand....."

"If you are not ready to inform me, I won't force you to."

Blade stared at her, watching as she nodded her head quickly, tears rolled down her eyes, she hadn't cried out the pain but only tried to make her self stronger.

Slowly, Blade hugged her, he wanted her to vent out her pain, her Inner pain which he could not heal.

"Cry it out Mon amour."

Blade said, patting her back tenderly.

"You not going to hate me are you."

Bella said, still hugging him tenderly.

"Never, never will I, instead I owe you by not protecting you when you were been raped. I hated werewolves you know, when I saw you, I wanted to kill you my self, but then when I realized you were my mate, eerry instincts of killing you flew away through the window and then I realized that the goddess has gifted me with a golden light to protect and love."

Blade said, leaving her hold gently, slowly holding her cheeks, he smiled down at her.

"You are my sunlight and no one will ever take you away from me."

Blade said, watching as a smile finally settled on her face. He was happy he made her smile in a storm she was facing.

Slowly he kissed her forehead, leaving her hold.

"Are you ready to hear another news, not bad though."

Blade said, watching as she smiled down at him.

"But before the news, I got to inform you something else. I gave you a present."

Bella said, twisting her hands nervously.

"Yeah I know. How can I forget."

Blade said, picking up a paper, slowly striding towards her.

"You did?"

Bella asked, wondering when and how he knew, perhaps the queen must informed him. She knew how much the queen hated Isabella.

"Yes of cause, that was the best gift ever, you gave me a gift in the pool and another in your former room."

Blade said, now walking to sit beside her.

"My former room?"

Bella said, Blade had a way of diverting speeches.

"Yes you are no longer staying there, but staying here, that is also My room but this is my main royal chambers."

Blade said, watching as Bella stared around the room.

"Yes its indeed royal. But that was not what I meant by birthday gift. That wasn't a birthday gift but a game that happened because you were drunk."

Bella said, staring at him.

"Ohhh so what is my birthday gift then."

Blade asked, wondering what other birthday gift he got from her.

"The knitted cardigan that Isabella took as hers was made by me. I never gave it to you personally because I don't want you to consider the present to be too poor for your liking but someone else had to claim it as theirs."

Bella said, frowning her face with anger.

"Oooh I knew she was lying, I knew you made the dress. You do not expect me to have a camera in my office, an office that contains secret and important things. You know, ever since you came into my life, I hardly work in my office company, the pack was better also the humans are quite annoying, not all humans knows who I am while some do and they kept it secret. Not to protect the vampires race but to protect their kinds, the humans. When I saw the footage of you entering into my office and dropping that garment, I was blessed to have a soul as you as my mate. Little things like this matters to me, not everyone knows that I the almighty vampire king can catch a cold."

Blade said, smiling gently, quickly he walked to a locker, bringing out the cardigan, he wore it.

"So how did you see it?".

Blade asked, staring at her.

"You look simple and hot...."

Bella heard herself said, quickly she held her lips, she was such a talker.

"You do not have to filter your words around me. I love it when you find me hotter and simple and all those good attributes that comes with it."

Blade said.

"I will punish her in my own ways."

Blade said, quickly walking to sit beside his mate.

"In your own ways, how."

Bella asked, staring at him.

"For taking what belongs to me and for lying to me, I will punish her so well."

Blade said.

"Now do you wanna hear the next news. But I need to call the doctor first, I have been so excited to see that you have woken up."

Blade said, quickly mind linking the doctor to come over.

"Hahaha sure, he better be quick, I need to hear this news of yours."

Bella said, smiling but she felt a tug on her chest, she never told the king everything that happened that night and who she was mated to, the ev bastard that raped her and destroyed her life.

The Vampire Omega by Angelic Chapter 67

/ The Vampire Omega by Angelic

The door to the Blade's chamber opened revealing doctor Robert, the doctor was struck with surprise when he saw the King's mate was awake.

"Oh my goodness, finally she woke up."

The doctor said, quickly walking towards the king's mate, Blade stared at the doctor, he could not wait for the doctor to be done with what he was doing so he could find an alone time with his mate.

The doctor checked her temperature, her massive recovery was quite a big surprise for him.

"Did she demand for blood, like asked for blood as a vampire?"

The doctor said, staring at the turned she wolf.

Bella stared at the two vampires in the room, what did they meant by taking blood, she was a werewolf, a werewolf never takes blood.

"What do you mean blood, I am a werewolf, wolves don't drink blood."

Bella said, still confused over everything.

Blade sighed slowly, this was the right time to inform his mate what happened.

"You need to hear this mon amour When you fell unconscious, the doctor found out that you were totally down and the only way for you to be healed is by injecting a vampire's blood in you, If that is not done, then you will have die, there was also a consequences that came with it, If your blood is not strong enough for a vampire blood, you will die. I had to take the risk, I do not know If you will survive it or not survive it, i just wanted you alive, that was my concern. Am sorry for taking such a decision without your notice, but then I had no other option."

Blade said, hoping she understood him.

"Wow, this is so huge to hear at once. So you mean I am a vampire?"

Bella asked, Her eyes still widened with the news she had heard.

"You have not showed any symptoms of a vampire, so the doctor will check out the condition you are in."

Blade said, staring at him.

"Ok if that is so, can he check now, I am quite surprised that I survived a vampire blood, so this means I was never weak. Hmm I love the feeling of been a vampire."

Bella said smiling lightly, slowly she turned to stare at Blade.

"Of course you are, you always are."

Blade said, he was surprised at how simple she took the news, his mate was excited been a vampire, quickly turning to the doctor to perform his job.

"The doctor nodded his head quickly, the way the two mates behaved towards each other told him that they truly loved each other.

The doctor took out some blood from her, slowly he took the blood to a machine which is used to check blood, and slowly inserted the blood in the machine.

The machine can read what kind of specie a being belongs to.

It took five minutes for the results to come out.

"Well well seems I understand why your mate haven't asked for a blood ever since she woke up."

The doctor said, handing the results of his findings to the vampire king.

Blade stared at the paper in his hands, he froze at what he saw, his mate was a hybrid, the third of its kind. It was hard to have a hybrid, totally hard, when a werewolf is given a vampire's blood, the vampire either dies or totally changes to a vampire without having any gene of a werewolf in them.

Slowly Blade turned to stare at his mate, Bella stared back at him, she was anticipating to hear what she was, from the looks of the two vampires, it was something serious.

"What happened, what am I?"

Bella asked, staring at the two vampires.

"You are a hybrid."

Both the doctor and Blade said in a union.

Bella opened her mouth in shock, she could not believe what she heard, she was a half vampire and a half werewolf.

"Am I, but I don't have fangs like vampires have, I never had fangs because I am an omega."

Bella said, she kept staring at the two vampires, great changes were beginning to happen in her life so fast.

"I made a research about you Luna."

The doctor said, he was about to reveal a big revelation to her, something only scientific method or witchcraft could have found out.

"What did you find about me?"

Bella asked, wondering what else she didn't know about herself.

"Am sorry for not telling you this first vampire king. But you weren't yourself throughout this last few days."

The doctor said, turning to apologize to the king.

"OK, go on."

Blade said, his dark eyes watching every actions the doctor took.

"Good, when the Luna never woke up on the fourth day, I thought she will be dead, I am sorry for saying dead, but that is the scientific approach to this. When I realized she was alive I decided to take her blood without your knowledge and make a research about it....."

"Why will you take my blood's mate without my permission!"

Blade barked, he was ready to rip off this vampire's head and feed him to the vultures.

"Vampire King, can you please let him speak."

Bella said, lightly patting Blade's hands, Blade felt his blood calm down instantly.

"Thank you Luna Bella."

The doctor continued.

"I made a research about her blood, when I took her blood was fighting the vampire King's blood. It was quite impossible to think that a mere werewolf blood could fight the almighty king's blood."

The doctor said, now staring at Bella with a serious expression.

"So what does that mean?"

Blade asked, watching as the doctor turned to stare back at the king.

"Your mate here is not just an ordinary werewolf. Your mate is the daughter of an alpha. Your mate possesses an alpha blood that can make her fight over a vampire king's blood. Alpha's don't like dominion, alpha's loves been in control that was why she never turned to a complete vampire. She can control her vampire gene and also....."

"What do you mean to say. You seem to confuse me with someone else."

Bella said, things were happening so quick, she was a hybrid and then she was the daughter of an alpha, she carries an alpha blood in her. This was insane.

"Am serious, this is the real truth, you are a powerful werewolf and that is why you were able to survive a vampire's blood and never changed completely to a vampire."

The Vampire Omega by Angelic Chapter 68

/ The Vampire Omega by Angelic

Original chapter 68

The doctor said, staring at the king to know if he will agree.

"He is saying the truth Mon amour, you are the daughter of an alpha. When I saw this results that you were an hybrid, that was when I realized how powerful your blood is. But I wasn't quite sure if you were a hybrid. I read books, old model books and I have come across things like this, which states that any one who survives a vampire's blood and turn to a hybrid is either a ruler or a special kind of belongs to a ruler of a special kind."

Blade said, now turning to face his mate completely.

"You are an alpha she wolf and that had been taken away from you without your knowledge."

Blade said, watching as Bella remained quiet.

All these were too much for her to bear, but she seemed to be understanding it.

"Then why am I an omega to my pack, why was I treated so harshly then?"

Bella quietly said.

Blade stared at the doctor who nodded his head in return.

Both knew the answers to this, there was two answers for her question.

But Blade decided to answer.

"Is either you are not member of the pack and that your family are not your true family, perhaps you were abducted or saved from a fallen pack or maybe your true family was taken away from you forcefully, that is, your true family was killed and the alpha position was given to someone else who killed the previous alpha."

Blade said, he was a vampire, but he had a vast idea about werewolves.

"But I have known the werewolves for quite a long time, I have never heard of any misplaced packs or defeated packs attacked by rogues. So it must be the second option. Her real family was killed and forgotten."

The doctor said, nodding his head at this new findings.

Bella shook her head with anger.

This was beginning to make sense.

Why would her mother not love her even though she had given birth to her, she nodded her head at her recent realization, because she was never her daughter.

The entire pack loathed her for something she never knew.

This was insane, totally insane, the pack killed the true alpha and then made her suffer for what she never knew.

But there was a question that kept raking through her head, why was she never like a werewolf, why was she wolfless.

"Then why was I wolfless, I never had a wolf in me, I never felt my wolf."

Bella asked, staring at her mate with a questioning look, she hoped they had an answer for this question.

"The answer is simple."

The doctor said, going to grab his bag, he brought out a medicine from his bag.

"You have been taking this all through out your life haven't you?"

The doctor said, showing her the drugs she had been forced and used to taking when she was little and then became matured.

Bella took the drugs, how could she forget this drugs.

Her fake mother had made sure she took those drugs always, anytime she didn't take the drugs, she would be beaten and then forced to take them, the drugs never came with a leaflet and also she never had a phone to browse what the drugs does in the body.

"I remember the drugs, I have been forced to take this and I never took it with me when I escaped the pack. I hated the drugs, it made me feel sick and weak."

Bella said, still holding the drugs, this time, there was a leaflet in it, she picked up the leaflet and read through it, the leaflet contained every information that the drugs does for the body.

When she read through the last part, she froze at what she read.

Slowly she looked up and stared at the doctor who nodded his head in understanding.

Blade quickly took the leaflet from her, he hated been in the dark, not in things that concerns his mate.

Blade folded his hand in anger at what he read.

His mate had been taking drugs that....

"Yes you read it right..."

The doctor said, interrupting their speech.

"The drugs made you wolfless. Not totally because your wolf will still be back but your family tried killing your wolf."

The doctor said, smiling down at her quite sadly.

Bella felt her hands froze at what she heard, they didn't just killed her family, they tried killing her wolf. She folded her hands with anger, this insane anger that can make one run insane, crazy things are happening to her cause by some crazy pack but this time she will show them how crazy she was, they all are gonna see her craziness and they will suffer for what they did to her and her family, but first, she will hear the truth from them.

"I need to go to my pack."

Bella said, she seeked for revenge, alpha Vincent was not going to easily confirm that he killed her family which was the real alpha and Luna but she will make sure they did confirm their atrocity.

"An invitation was sent to me by your pack members, specifically, the new alpha Lucas....."

Bella felt her heart skipped when she heard the invitation and then who had sent the invitation.

"It was sent by alpha Lucas, the son of alpha Vincent."

Bella said, staring at the letter that the king held in his hands.

"Yes they did, I do not know what made them sent a letter, knowing fully well we vampires are not in good terms with their kinds. But seems that will have to change for you. I accepted the invitation. The invitation will have to be sent to them today because the party is in four days."

Blade said, watching as Bella nodded her head slowly.

"Would you love to show your face to them yet, are you comfortable seeing them again?"

Blade asked, watching as she nodded her head.

"Yes I wanna see them, but they won't see me. I will attend the party. I have a plan."

Bella said, slowly turning to stare at the doctor.

"So what's next now. What happens to me as a hybrid, is my werewolf gone."

Bella asked, staring at the doc

The Vampire Omega by Angelic Chapter 69

/ The Vampire Omega by Angelic

"Nope it is not gone. You will take blood when the desire comes, it comes once in a while, not all the time like we normal vampires. Your wolf have a high tendency of releasing her self since you have found out the truth about your self and also, you will be quite stronger and hear things and be quite fast like a vampire. You are one of a kind."

The doctor said, giving her some injections.

"This are the last injections I am giving you. Please take some food to regain back your strength."

The doctor said, bowing down once more to the king, he was about to leave the room when Blade stopped him.

"Excuse me doctor, but on no account should you inform any one what had happened or what you have heard in this room concerning my mate. You should know the consequences already."

Blade said, glaring at the doctor who shivered under his gaze, he wasn't a fool to inform anyone what had happened to the Luna.

"I will never do so."

The doctor said, Blade nodded his head slowly, giving the doctor the sign to leave, he left the room.

Blade and Bella stared at each other, the new was quite big for her to hear, every information seems to be so important.

"Hmmm, what next now?"

Bella asked, staring at Blade who smiled down at her.

"Eat and leave everything to me. I Am gonna make sure you have your revenge and your pack back and every evil person will be punished."

Blade said, staring at her, slowly taking her hands, he kissed her knuckles tenderly.

"I have mind linked the maids to bring lunch for you. The council wanna meet you."

Blade blurted out, he did not want his mate out there after hearing this new things about her, he wanted to keep her safe to himself but that can't happen, there are always people waiting to see how capable she was to lead the pack.

"I understand, perhaps they wanna see if I am alive or not."

Bella said, her words shocked Blade, how did she know what she was thinking, was that part of the hybrid traits, listening to his thoughts.

"You heard my thoughts?"

Blade asked, still hoping she never did, because if she did, he won't be able to think perverted things about her as he was used to.

"Nope I did not, I guessed, guessing could be part of a hybrid traits."

Bella said, laughing so hardly at a time like this.

Blade smiled when he heard her laughter, it sounded melodic in his ears, he could not believe he could ever hear this sound after a time like this.

"Are you serious, you never heard my thoughts?"

Blade asked, still staring at her.

"Yes I never heard your thoughts. Are you scared that I might have heard your thoughts."

Bella asked, still smiling intensely.

"Yes I am, no one have ever guessed or heard what I am saying."

Bella was shocked at what she heard.

She laughed so damn hard again, she could not believe this.

"Wow, I can't believe the vampire king can be quite scared."

Bella said, smiling down at the vampire.

The door opened revealing a maid who strode in with a trolley of food.

Bella stared at Blade, he had ordered all this dishes for her.

"All this for me?"

Bella asked, staring at Blade.

"Yes all the dishes are for you."

Blade said, watching as the maid set the dishes on the bed for Bella.

Bella was about to eat the dishes when Blade stopped her.

"Wait. Aurora, taste the dishes, taste every dishes."

Blade said, watching as the maid nodded her head quickly.

"Yes vampire king."

The maid said, picking a fork as she began tasting all the dishes.

When she was done, she bowed down slowly.

"You can leave."

Blade said, quickly the young maid left the room.

"Why did you want the maid to taste the food, you think that dishes were poisoned?"

Bella asked, staring at Blade who nodded his head.

"Yes, remember someone is out there to kill you, I won't forget about how I met you in the observatory. So I can't take the risk again and also I believe someone who belongs in the council is part of this blasphemy."

Blade said, Bella wondered what he meant, someone from the council, she suspected someone though, but she was not going to mention anything about them till it is confirmed.

"Ok then."

Bella said.

"Now can I eat?"

Bella asked, staring at him, watching as he nodded his head.

"Yes you can."

Blade said, when the maid had left, he had ordered a guard to follow her and check if she acts or does anything suspiciously.

"Now that I know you won't run away anymore. I dropped a brand new phone on the table. It saved some important contacts like mine and contacts of the people that can be trusted. It also have access to the internet."

Blade said, watching as Bella nodded her head as he eat her food In delight.

"And what about the queen?"

Bella asked, she haven't seen her since she woke up.

"I sent her to live in the other castle which is quite far away from here. Dont sorry about her been alone because there are a lot of children staying in that pack, they will need her help."

Blade said, Bella smiled down at him, she knew that was the queen's punishment for putting her life in danger, but it wasn't the queen's fault, she had been the one looking for flowers.... quickly her mind went to the flower passage, the secret passage.

She needed to inform the king about what she saw and heard in the passage.

"I will be back soon, Carson seems to have something urgent he wants to speak with me."

Blade said, slowly walking close to her, he bent down lowly to her lips level, quickly he wiped off the food particles that was on her lips with his tongue, Bella blushed lightly, her face flushed with shyness and a little bit of excitement.

"I will be back soon, seems you have something to tell me."

Blade said, smiling down at her, quickly he left the room, leaving Bella alone with her thoughts and new findings about her.

The Vampire Omega by Angelic Chapter 70

/ The Vampire Omega by Angelic

The door opened revealing Bella, she wore a long gown which covered her body and showed off her curves in the right places, Blade followed behind her, he was abiding by the demands of the council men, they wanted to see his mate and here she was, standing tall and healthier than they had ever expected.

"You asked for the future Luna, you asked if she was alright and here I present her before you. Does any one have anything to say."

Blade said, staring at all the council men who waved their head lowly as they had nothing to say, what was there to say, the Luna was alright, she was stronger than anyone have ever seen.

"Aloric, I hope you will not ask me about the condition of my mate ever in the future again. Such questions could provoke my anger and it might cost you a head."

Blade said, staring at Aloric who slowly turned to gaze at Bella for a while.

He looked stunned for a second but quickly masked his emotions.

"Yes my king."

Aloric said, bowing down slowly.

Bella stared at the old man whom she could recognize as the father of Azura, the young vampiress whom she had met in the King's party. She felt something unfamiliar nudge through her, a strange feeling which she could not grasp hold of.

Something kept telling her to stay far away from this old man who must have had something hidden under his sleeves.

"Good now the meeting is over, everything resumes as it used to be, no more rumors or asking about my mate or any thing related to her."

Blade said, staring at his mate, a little smile appeared on his face as he stared into those deep blue greenish eyes of hers.

The councilmen dispersed quietly out from the council room, Aloric leaving last.

"Now let's head to my office, I have emailed your former pack a message. I accepted their invitation. Are you sure you are comfortable coming to the party with me?"

Blade asked, he wanted to be sure he was not stressing her especially after hearing all the negative things that had happened to her in her pack.

"Yes I am sure, as I told you Blade, I won't have to show my face, when the day reach, I will inform you what I will wear to disguise my self. I do not want them to see my face as for now."

Bella said, Blade nodded his head, anything she wants that was what he was going to do.

"Anything you wish, I will send one of the best fashion designers in town to get you a lot of clothes for you to choose from."

Blade said, his words made Bella to stop walking abruptly.

"A fashion designer?"

Bella asked, this was the first time she was having a fashion designer make a dress for her to select from. In her previous pack, what she wore were clothes that had been rejected or thrown away from the arrogant women in the pack.

“Yes mon amour, the best fashion designer, Merly Copper, she is one of the best vampire designers in the world, she works for the humans too and made a name among them.”

Blade said, smiling lowly.

“Of cause I know her, she is well known among us in the werewolf pack. My two sisters are always in her Instagram accounts making loads and loads of comments so that she will notice them. Oh my gawd, so Merly Copper is gonna be my fashion designer. Geez I am so damn lucky.”

Bella whispered, quickly turning towards Blade, without having to think about it, she smashed her lips on his, causing a light moan to escape from his lips.

He wasn't expecting her to be bold enough to kiss him on her own.

Without wasting any further time, he dragged her towards a wall, pinning her quickly on the wall, he gave her entrance to slide her tongue inside his, allowing her to taste every inch of his mouth.

He wanted her to take control and that was what she did, she took control for the second time In the arms of the almighty vampire king.

Bella savored every inch of his lips, she wondered what gave her the courage to kiss him, that is; making the move and what ever that must have prompted her gave her the zeal to continue kissing without even feeling the need to breathe for once.

Perhaps her hybrid traits were taking control of her.

Slowly she detached her self from his lips, they needed to breathe.

Bella stared into those dark eyes of his, those dark eye that had a huge warmth for her.

She saw for the many times a genuine smile appeared on the King's face and she felt her self melt under this genuine smile of her mate.

“I love this hybrid spirit of yours, it turns me on you know, your possessiveness, this possessive side of you is quite appealing.”

Blade said, giving her a wink, Bella felt her cheeks boiled like a tomato, she felt different, each words and actions he took made her wanna take a stand beside him and show the rest of the world that he belonged to her, was that perhaps one of her hybrids powers.

"Do you have any idea what my powers are, my hybrid powers."

Bella said, slowly detaching her hands from his shoulders.

The kiss of the previous moment was still hovering in her mind.

"I don't really know much about hybrids powers, I know they are stronger than normal werewolves and normal vampires, they don't drink blood often like we vampires do, they can control themselves but when they lose control, it can ruin them and anyone close to them, the first two hybrids died in the war that took place between our two packs. Because the hybrids were the only ones who could bring the pack together, but since no one wanted to be together, the hybrids got killed."

Blade said, staring at her, slowly he raised her chin up to stare at her, he knew the question that was roaming through her mind.

"Hey you, you are not a bad thing, I have lived for a thousand years and you are the best thing that has ever happened to me. If truly your father owned the pack, your father was the previous alpha, then your new identity will join the werewolves and vampires together and we will become one. You will be the next alpha and if possibly, the best alpha king. Believe me."

Blade said, watching as she nodded her head, all she got to do was believe, but there was always a but when it comes to believe.

"But what if I die, this is a tug of war, like the squid game series where one got to leave and one got to survive."

Bella said, her face was serious as hell.

"No, it's not going to be like that, and it won't be like a movie or so. It's a war, which we are going to win together no differently. I'm gonna make sure we do. But I need you to be stronger, you are gonna start training mentally and physically. My brother will be here to teach you. But I can't believe you watch that, I don't watch things like that, they aren't real."

Blade said, now leading her to his office.

"Of course they are, but you gonna make me train, which kinda training, like a karate?"

Bella said, watching as a guard bowed down to her as they entered his office.

"Yep, more than that. This is a war and I need you to be able to protect yourself. I promise to be there but there are times when things might make me not to be there against my own wish."

Blade said, staring into her eyes as he spoke the pure truth.

Bella nodded her head, she understood him perfectly, bad things were meant to happen and he was giving her what he needed, defense.....

"Now you guys need to get a room for yourself, it looks as if you wanna fuck each other right in front of my eyes. I do love to watch it, but I have a very possessive brother who can't allow such happen."

Kurt blurted out from where he sat.

Blade turned to stare at his brother, he had noticed a presence in his office but he was too distracted to know who was in the office.

"And what the fuck are you doing in my chair kid."

Blade said, his voice was calm but Kurt was not a fool to know the poison that lay in that calm voice of his.

"Oooh I was bored so I decided to cheer up and sit on your chair, but your chair seems to be more sorrowful than I thought it would be, yuck everything about you is quite boring except your mate of course. She is like a fiery light in your dark and awful life."

Kurt said, smiling casually.

Slowly he turned towards Bella, stepping out from the chair. A kind and pure genuine smile appearing on his face.

"And I miss you human, you are not going to give papi a hug."

Kurt said, frowning his face a little.

Bella smiled down at him and without knowing what she did, she hugged Kurt so intensely, she missed him, she missed his talks, his jokes, his laughs, she missed the ways he creates to make the vampire king intense with anger and this was one of them.

"I missed you, you traveled without letting me know."

Bella said, still hugging him.

"Am sorry but you went out and almost got killed without letting me know, now this is unfair....."

A harsh growl stopped him from speaking and when he looked up, he saw Blade glaring at him intensely, a wicked grin appeared on his face. His brother was quite possessive.

"And I think you should let me go before blood spills on the ground."

Kurt said, slowly letting go of Bella.

Bella nodded her, still not understanding what he was saying.

“What.”

Bella said, wondering what he meant by blood spilling on the ground.

“No forget. But wait, did I just see you ran like a vampire to hug me or am I drunk. No I am not, am totally sober, so that means what I saw is true, you ran like a vampire.”

Kurt said, staring at Bella with shock.

Bella looked shock at what he said, she her self had not realized what she had done. But she only felt a rush of air that surged through her as she ran to hug Kurt even though it felt like a walk.